

1980 'boom year' as building values hit $10.5 million

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Despite talk of recession, high interest rates and 1980 being a bad year, 1980 was a boom year in Granite City, having the most construction and remodeling activity in 12 years, the annual report of city building permits shows.

The city issued 901 permits with values totaling $10,571,834, the highest dollar total since 1968 and almost a 40 percent increase over last year's permit total of $7,554,603.

Seven projects granted permits last year exceeded $150,000 and two were over the $1.5 million mark.

Major projects included a new $3,186,000 Pre-Coat Metals foundation, a $1,516,000 Air Products & Chemicals Corp. expansion program, a $782,000 foundation at American Steel Foundries, a $370,000 expansion program for Archer Daniels Midland Co., a $300,000 new building for Means Service, new water lines in Kirkpatrick Homes costing $317,845, a $175,000 building for the Granite City Steel Credit Union.

The annual rundown of Granite City building permits since the record year of 1965, follows.

1965	$13,228,529
1966	$7,794,490
1967	$3,045,733
1968	$10,731,686
1969	$2,584,008
1970	$2,145,721
1971	$2,983,652
1972	$6,724,032

1973	$2,109,392
1974	$1,781,946
1975	$3,947,246
1976	$3,603,836
1977	$5,869,222
1978	$5,579,379
1979	$7,554,603
1980	$10,571,834

By month, following are the highlights of the year.

JANUARY: In January, 1980, there were only 18 building permits issued with values totaling $129,575, the major project was a $20,800 canopy for the Sonic service station.

FEBRUARY: The $3,186,000 Pre-Coat Metals plant foundation, the $1,516,000 Air Products expansion foundation and the $370,000 improvements to Archer Daniels

Midland Co., made that month the largest dollar month of the year, with $5,029,519, although only 23 building permits were issued.

MARCH: A $28,000 platform scale at American Colloid and a $25,000 maintenance building for B.V. & G. Transport at 16th and State Streets were the largest projects. Fifty-one permits were issued that month with values totaling $261,026.

APRIL: First Granite City National Bank obtained a $148,500 permit for new drive-up facilities at 3200 Namook Road, and a $55,000 permit to remodel the interior of the bank addition in Namook Village Shopping Center. Colonial National Bank also obtained a $40,000 permit for drive-up facilities and Southwestern Cable TV was issued a permit for a $28,000 television tower in the 1900 block of Delmar Avenue. A total of 123 permits were issued in April with values totaling $623,780.

MAY: Air Products obtained permits for a $224,000 office and maintenance building and Farm Fresh Dairy was granted a permit for a $67,000 addition to its store in the 2900 block of Namook Road. Illinois Bell spent $30,800 to remodel the interior of its garage and Pantera's Pizza was granted a permit for a $30,000 remodeling job. There were 119 permits during the month with values totaling $752,123.

JUNE: A total of 130 permits with values totaling $1,040,991 were issued. More than half of the dollar value was due to an American Steel Foundries project for which a foundation permit was issued listing a value of $782,000. Roofing at Namook Village Shopping Center also was responsible for a $20,000 permit that month.

JULY: New water lines were installed in Kirkpatrick Homes at a cost of $317,845 and a permit was obtained for a $45,000 job to remodel the interior of Ervay's Restaurant. Home construction permits included one for a $225,000 house in Town and Country East. The projects were among 81 granted permits with values of $855,650.

AUGUST: A total of 72 permits were issued with values totaling $296,602, three new residences with values totaling $148,000 (including

Stalemate ends; GC approves county sewer rates

The stalemate appears to be over and the new sanitary sewers through Namook, Chouteau and Venice townships could be open within two to three weeks, officials are predicting.

The Granite City Council Tuesday night approved a sewage treatment rate of $18 per quarter (three months) for residential units which will use the new sewers. The agreement ends a year-long stalemate between the county and the city on what the treatment rate should be.

Specifically, the two sides were unable to agree upon the amount township residents should pay for past debt retirement on the amount city residents already have paid to retire the bonds used to finance the local share of constructing the large primary and secondary sewage treatment plant for both the city and the county sewers.

The council, which had demanded $23 per quarter before the negotiations, agreed Tuesday night to a rate of $13 per quarter for treatment, operations and expenses and $5 per quarter for past debt retirement. The $13 quarterly fee includes $3.86 in current debt retirement on the bonds, the same amount Granite City residents are paying. It also carries the provision that the county rate may increase or decrease, in direct proportion to any changes in the rate paid by city residents.

The pact will have to be ratified by the Madison County Board. The next regular county board meeting is Wednesday, Jan. 21, but Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer has indicated he may call for a special meeting of the board prior to that date to ratify the sewer agreement.

In addition to the $18 per quarter residential users of the new sewers will pay the city, they will be billed $5.80 per month or about $17 per quarter by the

Venice to consider manpower cuts

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Venice citizens who fail to pay their taxes are adding to the city's financial problems.

Mayor Tyrone Echols met last week with a member of the Madison County treasurer's office to determine what is happening to tax revenues, after the city received only $3,800 in partial payment of tax revenue.

"I learned that we should have $104,000 coming in, but people are not paying their taxes. I think this is a problem in many of the cities," Echols said.

"This non-payment is really putting the city in a bind. Although I would like to see the city make any cuts in personnel, the aldermen will have to take a real hard look at everything, including cuts in manpower."

"This is a problem in most cities, particularly small ones with limited tax revenues."

"I feel that the maximum we can expect from the replacement tax is $30,000, and possibly that. This is paid every two months."

"Federal revenue sharing is still in doubt. We are hoping for $35,000 to paid on a quarterly basis."

"With tax money uncertain as to how much a city will get and when they will get it, makes it hard to meet payrolls and figure expenses."

"We have a payroll of approximately $30,000 in the first part of the month and a $15,000 payroll the latter part of the month, and tax money dribbling in causes a real burden."

"Our utility tax has fallen off. We were getting $5,000 to $7,000 a month; now we're lucky to get between $3,000 and $4,000," Echols said.

The mayor indicated that in the latter part of this month the council will review, in depth, all phases of the city budget and expenses.

"We must take a hard and realistic look at our expenses and see where cuts can be made."

"We have anticipated about $30,000 in sales tax money, but this is uncertain as what few retail stores we have in Venice are not doing the volume they have done in the past."

"You know your in trouble as you see the city's assessed valuation fall over the years from $52 million to $13 million," Echols lamented.

Another problem Echols noted was that increased prices in such things as insurance and materials used by the city, keep raising the cost of operating the city, even if nothing new is added.

Warren Decatur in race for mayor

Warren L. Decatur, Granite City Fourth Ward alderman since 1975, has announced that he will be a candidate for mayor of Granite City in April balloting.

He is the third announced candidate for the office. Incumbent Mayor Paul Schuler and Dan Partney previously announced. Glen R. Hollis also has taken out candidate petitions, but has not announced that he will be a candidate.

Decatur made his announcement yesterday, saying he had been considering running for two or three months and had received numerous telephone calls and visits from persons wanting him to run for mayor.

"The pressure seems to have built up more and more for me to run," Decatur said.

"I plan to base my campaign on one issue, that is that this city has a $14 million budget and I think it should be run like a large business. I am going to sell myself that I can do a better job than either Mayor (Paul) Schuler or Danny Partney and if I lose, I am not going to go out and jump off the McKinley Bridge," Decatur said.

He spoke freely with a reporter about some of the changes he would make. One would be to hire an administrative aid with experience as an accountant and with preparing multi-million dollar budgets. He said he had someone in mind, but did not wish to name him now.

The city's inspection and sanitation department "would be in for a change," Decatur said, contending, "They don't do their job. If people are getting paid, they should work and produce," he added.

"People are given flat permits to Steel processors will close plant in Madison

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Piper Industries Metal Service Division located at No. 9 Fox Industrial Park, Madison, is phasing out its operations, it was learned by the Press-Record today.

The entire operation of the steel processing plant, which has operated in Madison since 1968 is expected to be closed down completely between late February and mid-March.

The plant is engaged in processing steel coils. Operations include slitting, leveling and edging.

Paul Piper Jr., the firm president, told the Press-Record from his Memphis, Tenn. office, "Unfortunately it is quite simple. We are simply not making any money. We were at the point that wages and benefits were taking up 90 percent of our dollar."

"I tried meeting with the union president to see if they would cut back a little on things like sick days; maybe give 'em up some vacation time or something to help save the operation."

"I know they can't take a salary cut, but some of the fringe benefits would have helped get things into a little better position."

"The union was not interested in giving

Granite City Rotary Club, presided. The Granite City Trust and Savings Bank hosted the meeting.

The gathering was held that, by remaining non-attainment areas in terms of national ambient air quality standards, westernmost townships in Madison and St. Clair counties, now need to attract different types of industries than those which could have been considered in past years. But such employers are attainable, such as the Pre-Coat Metals plant built for the Chromal American Corporation, it was pointed out.

In addition, heavy industries like automobile assembly plants and petroleum refineries can be accommodated in the western area of the two counties through advance planning that includes "offsets." Offsets involve ending 12 units of existing air pollution for each unit of pollution resulting from a new plant, the group was told.

IMAGE has proposed that Monroe County and eastern portions of Madison and St. Clair counties be designated from Class II to Class III. This is subject to approval by elected officials, including the governor, and the U. S. EPA (Environmental Protection Agency).

Reclassification involves continued adherence to national clean air standards but would let more air pollution be added to the existing amount, than would be allowed under the present Class II designation, it was explained.

Buffer distance requirements would limit the affected area to far eastern portions of the counties; townships attaining national air standards and situated close to non-attainment townships would be constrained from much of an increase in their present pollution, since air flows freely from one area to the next, the speakers said.

Parrell praised the cooperation of labor, contractors and owners in improving construction work practices and in securing an improved regional and national image of this area's labor-management relations.

He recalled IMAGE members' meetings in Springfield with the Illinois EPA and with Governor James R. Thompson, saying they resulted in the Price warns of weapons problems

"In the event of war, the U.S. defense industry would find it almost impossible to expand its weapons production suddenly and dramatically in the numbers necessary to sustain a prolonged conflict," House Armed Services Chairman Melvin Price said in a 32-page report issued last week by a special panel of the committee.

Cong. Richard Ichord, who headed the ten-member panel that conducted 13 days of hearings, said the armament industry has been "crippled by declining productivity growth, aging facilities and machinery, shortages of critical materials, increasing lead times, skilled labor shortages, inflexible government contracting procedures, inadequate defense budgets, and burdensome government regulations and paperwork."

"We are not buying the required ammunition, equipment, and weapons systems to fight even a short war. Our troops are outmanned and outgunned at almost every turn. Plainly and simply, we are not prepared."

The report suggested altering government contracting procedures, followed by actions to solve productivity, quality, materials and manpower problems. It said new procurement methods are needed to foster timely, economic and efficient acquisition of weapons and systems.

The panel found that inflation, tax policies and management priorities have curbed capital investment in new technology, facilities and machinery. And it warned that the U.S. is relying increasingly on foreign sources for critical raw materials and specialized components for military equipment.

Caucuses set

Venice Township will hold public caucus sessions at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 13, in the second floor of the Madison Volunteer Firemen's Hall to nominate candidates and parties in the April township election.

The Republicans and Democrats will meet simultaneously in meetings in different parts of the room, if anyone appears for the caucuses. All township officials in Illinois face reelection this April, except those in co-extensive city-township entities, such as Granite City and Alton.

"Chouteau Township also is planning to make the town hall and community center at 697a N. Thorngate Drive, Mitchell, available for caucuses. Tuesday evening with the Republicans to meet at 7 p.m. and the Democrats at 8 p.m. No groups have expressed an interest in nominating parties through the caucus process, a township spokesman said.

There will be no public caucus to nominate parties for the April Nameoki Township election, Republican precinct committee members confirmed last week.

A township does not have to hold a caucus, the precinct committee of both parties vote not to hold one and not to vote the major party names in connection with political candidates or tickets.

The Democratic precinct committee passed the resolution last month and the township's five Republican committee members joined in the action last week, Nameoki Town Clerk Douglas Teeter announced.

"Granite City Township is not required to hold a caucus since the township and city boundaries are identical and the aldermen serve as the town board."

Hurt when car, truck collides

Alfred Barton, 52, of 2545 Circle Drive, sustained an injury to his nose when his auto slid into the side of a tractor-trailer truck at 23rd Street and Lincoln Avenue at 9:06 a.m. Tuesday.

He was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and later was released. Operating the tractor-trailer was Jerry L. Williams of Gerald, Mo.

TAKE RADIO, ITEMS

A radio valued at $40 and several personal grooming items were missing from the apartment of Greg Wiegand, 2215 Washington Ave., after three acquaintances had been visiting, he reported at 11:20 p.m. Monday.

State animal — wild, active and fascinating

The 700,000 students who just elected the white-tailed deer the official animal of Illinois can now visit their favorite animal in a diorama group, Hall 16, (Hall of America Mammals) on the main floor of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago.

The "four seasons" dioramas, prepared by taxidermist Carl Akeley nearly a century ago, illustrate seasonal differences in appearance and habits of the white-tailed deer (Odocoileus virginianus) throughout the year.

The white-tailed deer were the first large-scale animal dioramas mounted by Akeley; considered the "father of modern taxidermy." Asked why students would be more likely to choose the deer, Dr. Patricia Freeman, head of the museum's Division of Mammals, replied, "A deer is quiet and curious enough to be on the lookout for their secret places," she added, "there could hardly be a more fascinating animal to discover outside."

As for the right time and place, Dr. Freeman notes that "deer are 'crepuscular animals,' that is, they are most active at dawn and at sunset, and on bright moonlit nights."

"Look for them on the edges of forests — they love the plants that grow there. They also have a sweet-tooth for acorns."

Selecting fireplace wood

By RONALD CORNWELL. There are a large number of homes in Madison County with fireplaces. Homeowners can obtain information on the best types of firewood by requesting a free copy of "Firewood For Fireplaces" from the Madison County Agricultural Extension Office in Edwardsville.

Since satisfactory performance of the fireplace depends a lot on the type of wood used, here are some hints on selecting and storing fireplace wood.

Although any kind of wood may be used as a fuel, some types make better firewood than others. Generally, heavier hardwoods are considered better fuel than lighter ones.

The best firewood is apple, beech, black locust, hedge, hickory, oak, pear or sugar maple. Other woods that make a good fuel are ash, black cherry, elm, silver maple and walnut.

Basswood, catalpa, cottonwood and yellow poplar make only a fair source of fuel for fireplaces.

Dry wood with less than 20 percent moisture ignites better, is lighter, has more heat value and causes less trouble from smoke than green wood.

Past governor Rotary speaker

Granite City Rotarians were addressed Tuesday by one of its members, Past Rotary District Governor Kenneth Evers, who discussed the current Rotary International president's year-long theme, "Take time to serve."

Evers noted the wide range of Rotary services to world undersanding, community betterment, business ethics and advancement of young people.
He stressed that one individual can do much to change his city, region, nation and world. Examples cited were Paul Harris, who founded Rotary International in Chicago shortly after the turn of the century, and a Collinsville dentist whose "Operation Toothbrush" enabled Rotary District 646 to improve dental health in this hemisphere.

THIEF TAKES TOOLS Tools valued between $1,000 and $1,500, belonging to Lloyd Goodman, were stolen from a garage area at Kienstra Concrete, 2801 Circle Drive, it was reported at 6:40 a.m. Wednesday. The lock was pried from a hasp to gain access to the garage.

sewer district for maintaining the sewers and lift stations and operating the sewer district. The total bills, therefore, are expected to be $38 per quarter, or about $11.66 per month.
Gene Futch, superintendent of the sewer district, upon learning Wednesday of the city council's approval, told the Press-Record, "Very good. I'm sure glad. Maybe we can get started now and get some money coming in."
Futch also predicted, "If they (the county board) go through it real fast, we could start hooking sewers on within two weeks."

He said the new Pre-Cast Metals plant on Route 3, north of West Pontion Road, will probably be the first user of the new sewers, since Pre-Cast is ready to tap-on and cannot even heat the new facility until it is linked to sewers accepting the boiler waste.

Tap-ons will begin in the North Street area and around Pre-Cast Metals and will continue clockwise through Mitchell, then Pontion Beach and Nameoki Township, Futch explained.

The lift station near Stallings School still is without electricity, but can be ready within three weeks, completing the entire sewer system, he added.

The Granite City Council first considered the new sewer rate ordinance
Dec. 23, and placed it on first reading after several aldermen indicated they had "some questions" about it.

Tuesday night, those questions were aired and answered as the ordinance moved from first reading to final passage.

Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward said he is concerned that there is no formal contract between the city and the county on the sewer rates.
"It should be spelled out, word for word. There should be a complete ordinance so the county knows where it's at and the city knows where it's at.

Somewhere down the line, some mayor and council are going to have a fight over this," Whitmer predicted.

Mayor Paul Schuler said the county will pass an ordinance identical to the city's ordinance, setting the rates, so no contract is required. City Attorney John Papa agreed.

Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward did not agree. "It would seem worthwhile to have a formal written contract along these lines. I can just see one party of the other unilaterally changing the agreement," he said.

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman of the Second Ward warned against further delay in approving the rate ordinance. "We have been counting on this money coming in since a year ago last December to meet all those funds (bills) we're not meeting. The sooner we do it, the better the financial condition will be down at the sewage treatment plant."

Mayor Schuler reminded the council that the city contemplates an amendment to the other sewer ordinances setting the rate to be charged residential users in the county. All other provisions and requirements, including the industrial treatment rate,
were finalized in the earlier ordinances, which will remain in effect, he said.

Officially the ordinance the council passed Tuesday night amends section one of Ordinance 3558, formerly section four of Ordinance 3284, first passed in 1972. The city contends that only the residential rates set by the 1972 ordinance were invalid, since the county failed to meet the provision in the or-

Medical Center entrance to close Jan. 12

The Madison Avenue Medical Center, when the entrance to the building will be closed due to construction, beginning Monday, Jan. 12. This area is one of several under construction in the Medical Center, and when completed will house the employment and personnel offices.

"For their safety patients, visitors and staff are requested to use one of the 21st Street entrances to the distance that the sewers be in use within three years, which would have been 1975. A lengthy lawsuit and subsequent appeals delayed the sewer program several years.

Alderman Earl Baker of the Sixth Ward said he would vote against the amendment because county residents would not be paying the $10 per quarter surcharge the city imposed in 1978 on all residents outside of the city limits who use city sewers. That surcharge was designed to catch up the past debt requirement within five years of when the county sewers began operations. "I don't see a cut in half," Baker said.

Whitmer questioned whether the $5 per quarter delinquent debt service charge would end when county residents have paid the $339,670 it is estimated the county owes. "Some aldermen wonder if it is a good idea to cut it off when it is paid off. I think we should make something from this," he stated.

Mayor Schuler responded, "That's in the 1990s and that's when everything has to be changed anyway. I hope we will have paid off the bonds by then."

Whitmer responded he feels the county residents should keep paying the $5 per quarter until the bonds are fully paid off.

Actually, the amendment approved by the council specifies, "The additional recovery fees shall be billed for such a period of time as the sewage works' revenue bonds, dated Oct. 1, 1972, are outstanding."

Schuler then called for a roll call on final passage, which was approved 13 to 1, with only Alderman Baker voting no. All members of the council were present for the vote.

departments and seeing that the projects mandated by the city council are carried out. The mayor has ultimate responsibility, but the mayor has many other meanings, appearances and duties to adequately oversee all city departments, he said.

"In 1979, we reserved Community Development funds for Briarcliff drainage. That was in July of 1979. It's just getting started now. So many things in this city seem to get placed on the back burner."

"I am seeing an apathy on the part of the city to complete anything. There are too many people with no direction," he contended. "I see despair of people who feel locked in without much incentive to work."

He also pledged that if elected, he would shun political appointments and would hire only qualified employees for city posts. He said he also would tighten up things such as testing for fire and police hirings and promotions.

"We have to open like a business, putting the best people in the jobs and keeping them. The tax burden has gotten so bad that we have to have economy. The city's tax rate has not gone up much, but with inflation and new assessments, people are paying more taxes."

"If I see waste, I will try to cut the fat out of the city. I believe we can see a reduction in costs and possibly payrolls. It is going to take some ingenuity to keep the city providing the same services in future years, but if it means less people working harder, that is what we will have to do."

"The recent census shows a reduction to about 36,000 people. That will mean less motor fuel tax and federal revenue sharing, and we have to make cuts. We also have to break our dependence on federal revenue sharing for salaries."

"I have been a member of the council's finance committee for five of my six years as an alderman and we have always recommended phasing out the use of revenue sharing for salaries. Each year, our plans went down the drain."

"Revenue sharing is going to stop some day. We all know that. When it does, it is going to be a tremendous burden, if we are still relying on it for salaries."

"I don't think the federal government ever intended revenue sharing for salaries. I think it was meant for capital improvements. Our roads need repair and there are lots of good places we could use it, besides salaries."

Decatur said he will have to do.

"I am not going to campaign by saying bad things about Paul Schuler or Danny Pantney. I am going to sell myself on the basis that I can do a better job than either one of them," he concluded.

up anything to help save the jobs, which left us with no alternative but to close down," Piper said.

A spokesman from the local plant said that 75 percent of the union working force was already gone and that only eight men were still working. The work force was 32.

The Madison operation has three office workers left and all the salesmen had been laid off.

The spokesman in Madison said the company is setting up a meeting with union officials in reference to the closing within the next week.

A union spokesman said the members of the union have not yet negotiated with the company concerning the shutdown. Such negotiations are required under the Taft-Hartley act.

Plant workers are members of union Local 688 based in St. Louis.

The plant has been operating since 1968 and Piper Industries purchased the operation in 1972.

Piper Industries has 14 other operations in six states, with executive offices in Memphis, Tenn.

Piper Industries still owns the building, but has no idea what it will do with the facility.

Bowler contests values; public meeting tonight

The Seventh Ward has been hit harder by this reassessment than any other ward, Alderman Paul Ray Bowler intends to prove at a public meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Nameki Recreation Center. He said he also is considering a lawsuit to try and rectify the situation.

Bowler has done about 60 hours of work listing the 1979 and 1980 assessment for every parcel of property in his ward and calculating the increases in dollars and cents.

"I figure we were reassessed about 30 percent higher than last year which is about 10 times higher than the citywide average."

He said Jim Barton, Madison County supervisor of assessments, has estimated that the assessed valuation of Granite City increased 2.98 percent in the 1980 reassessment. "That's almost three percent. Our assessments had been increased 16 percent," Bowler said.

"We and a part of the Fourth Ward always get assessed higher than anyone else. It's not fair and I have my attorney looking into the possibility of filing a class action suit on behalf of the Seventh Ward residents to get these assessments down," Bowler told the Press-Record.

One block of Nameki Road, one restaurant had a four percent reduction in its assessment, another restaurant went down 12 percent, and a house on that block was raised 36 percent in its assessment.

Other blocks showed an optometrist's office declining in assessment 21 percent, a chiropractor's lot decreasing 31 percent, a doctor's lot going down 11 percent and houses in the area averaging 38.2 percent increases with some as high as 78.4 percent.

Madison County Federal Savings & Loan was one of the few commercial buildings showing increases and its assessment rose only eight-tenths of one percent, Bowler pointed out.

One house rose in assessment (one-third of the market value) from $5,060 in 1979 to $9,790 in 1980, a 93 percent climb, he added, showing the comparison figures from the official assessment lists.

"I hope people attend tonight's meeting and study the comparisons for their properties. I will encourage each one to file a protest with the Madison County Board of Review but Mr. Barton has been quoted as saying protests will be thrown out if you cannot show proof that your home is assessed too high in comparison with similar homes in your neighborhood."

"In the first place, what gives me the qualifications to be an appraiser of other people's homes, and, in the second place, me trying to measure the dimensions of my neighbor's house borders on trespassing. How are we supposed to show the Board of Review proof of what equivalent houses in our neighborhoods are selling for?" Bowler asked.

Granite City Township Tax Assessor Von Dee Cruse has pledged to attend tonight's meeting to answer questions about how the assessments were reached and what should be done by those who believe their assessments are too high.

He also plans to talk about assessment reduction programs available to all citizens to reduce their taxes, Cruse said.

The meeting will be held in the Nameki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues, near Pontoon Road.

along with their real estate assessment-change forms. Also attending this meeting will be an attorney and a certified appraiser to offer advice and help with the filing of objection forms and to advise on the exemptions that are available to property owners, a spokesman said.

He was employed 40 years at General Steel Industries and moved to Tennessee when the plant closed here.

Among the survivors are a son, Keith Kelly of Seabrook, Tex., a daughter, Glenda Lay of Edwardsville; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Burial was in Obion (Tenn.) Cemetery.

$1,490 truck camper burglary

Tools and other items valued at over $1,490 were taken from the camper shell of a pickup truck, parked at the home of Claude Warren, 2310 Logan Ave., he reported Monday.

The thief pried open a rear door window on the camper to gain access. Taken were a tool box containing plumbing, mechanical, and electrical tools, worth $900, a 20 hp Mercury outboard motor, $500, and a chain saw, $80.

Warren told police that someone also tried to break into his garage by driving pointed objects through the door in an attempt to dislodge a slide hasp.

Youth, 14, hit by car

James L. Bucks, 14, of 3208 Kirkpatrick Homes, was injured when he was stepped from the curb into the path of an auto traveling south in the 2900 block of Nameki Road at 3:40 p.m. Monday.

Driver of the vehicle, William P. Pearman, 3705 Fair Oaks Drive, told police the youth landed on the hood of his auto and struck the windshield.

Bucks was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for an injury to the left knee and later was released.

Quarter-cent transit sales tax is imposed

A quarter-percent sales tax to help subsidize Bi-State bus service in Illinois was reluctantly imposed by the county's new transit board, which held its first meeting Monday in the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

The three members voted unanimously to impose the tax, effective Feb. 1, after Darrell Thompson, Bi-State's intergovernmental affairs coordinator, said cuts in bus routes could result immediately unless the full quarter-cent sales tax was imposed now. He noted that the first monies from a tax starting in February probably would not be received until May.

According to Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, one of the members of the transit board, "The theme of the meeting was the immediate task of maintaining what bus service we do have." Immediately imposing the tax seemed the only way of assuring that the buses would continue operating in Madison County, he added.

Schuler said he believes Bi-State forced the transit board to determine the amount of the tax "backwards." He added, "Taxing districts most commonly determine the amount of money needed, and set the tax accordingly."

Mrs. Violet Tucker, supervisor of Collinsville Township and another member of the transit board, said she hopes the board will give serious consideration to breaking Bi-State's hold on transit in this area and she wants to study proposals from other firms interested in serving Madison County.

She and Schuler suggested that the board delay passing the transit tax ordinance, but they later agreed to impose the tax, with the assurance the tax could be lowered in the future if it produces more money than is necessary.

Madison County Board Member William H. Haine, also a member of the transit board, said he fully expects the tax will be decreased. It is expected to produce approximately $2.1 million annually in the portion of Madison County included in the transit district.

Bi-State had threatened to reduce approximately $6 million worth of bus service per year in the three-county area.

Before beginning the discussion on the sales tax or selecting board officers, the board members conducted a drawing to determine the lengths of their terms in office. Mrs. Tucker drew the four-year term on the board, Schuler drew three years and Haine drew the shortest two-year membership on the board.

Haine was elected president of the new board, with Schuler serving as vice-chairman and secretary and Mrs. Tucker was elected treasurer.

The board also agreed to hold regular meetings the first Monday of each month, starting at 9:30 a.m., in the county courthouse. Special meetings will be held as often as needed and the board agreed a special meeting should be held next Monday, Jan. 12, in the third floor conference room. The public may attend all board meetings.

Matt Melucci, executive director of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, may be present to report on research his office has done into some of the issues Haine requested that the Gateway Council study.

Areas under consideration by Gateway include the qualifications for hiring a transit manager for the district, salaries paid managers in other areas and general information on the proposed manager's job and its duties.

Melucci's office also is studying the requirement imposed by the Madison County Board that the new transit board appoint a citizens' advisory committee to aid in planning and in bus routes and scheduling.

The Department of Revenue will be responsible for determining new tax tables and charts for merchants and for collecting and distributing the tax funds to the transit board.

Some coordination with St. Clair and Monroe Counties will be necessary to fund bus routes which cross the county lines, it was noted. The other counties also have appointed transit boards which are expected to impose a quarter-cent sales tax in the near future.

St. Clair County Director of Administration Al N. Young, was among those in the audience at the Madison County Transit Board's initial meeting Monday.

Woods to leave MEGSI Feb. 1

Richard L. Woods of Granite City will resign as director of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group Feb. 1. His resignation was accepted by the MEGSI Policy Board yesterday.

Woods told the Press-Record, "I was hired to reorganize and upgrade the MEGSI unit and I feel I have done all that I can."

"In my three years, we have tripled in size and have all kinds of capabilities now for checking records and for investigation," Woods noted.

Woods said he hopes that his successor will be able to keep the program active, despite continuing funding problems. The latest cut came when the governor froze two percent of the budget of all departments, reducing the Department of Law Enforcement's grants to the eight MEGSI units in the state by about $100,000, a large part of which is earmarked for MEGSI.

"I hope that money will be freed up, because we need it. We budget for only what we need, and when that does not come in, it makes it difficult," Woods said.

The financial situation was not the reason for Woods' resignation, he told the Press-Record. "I feel I have done all that I can here. It is time for someone else to take over and I will be looking for bigger and better things," he explained.

"I am confident that MEGSI will continue, despite cuts from the state, because we have good chiefs of police and good city officials in this area who will find a way to keep MEGSI operating," he predicted.

MEGSI covers five county areas and concentrates on drug traffic. Hundreds of drug pushers have been arrested in recent years and MEGSI boasts a conviction rate close to 100 percent.

Undercover drug agents are utilized to mix with suspected drug dealers and to attempt to purchase drugs. Drugs actually purchased have included heroin, cocaine, angle dust, LSD, amphetamines and large quantities of marijuana.

After undercover investigations lasting about four months, the MEGSI agents obtain warrants for the arrests of the dealers and series of arrests then follow.

Woods, retired from the Granite City Police Department as a lieutenant in September 1977 after serving 13 years as an officer. His law enforcement career began Feb. 1, 1964.

He was named a sergeant in 1974 and was promoted to lieutenant in 1977.

He holds an associate degree in law enforcement from Belleville Area College, a bachelor of arts degree in human services and government from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and a master of arts degree from Webster College in Webster Groves, Mo.

The evening was marked by skating to disco lights, games, special events and awards. A total of $100 in prizes was donated by the Stopkotte family and was awarded to the youngsters. The youngest, a 3-year-old, received a special prize.

At midnight, the participants donned colorful hats and celebrated with the blowing of 200 horns, ushering in the new year.

Floor guards and parents who assisted in the program were Mark Hargrave, Fred Trehring, Morris Ricketts, Gary Hawkins, Tom Ilers, Gene Pushe and Mary Weathy.

Rain 10.6 inches below normal during 1980 year

It was a dry year for the Quad-City area. Records show that the area ended the 1980 year with 10.6 inches of rainfall less than the normal for the year's full period.

Statistics compiled from figures at the Chain of Rocks Locks—which maintains weather records for the Army Corps of Engineers—show the Quad-Cities received a total of 23.71 inches of rain.

Normal for the year is 34.40 inches. The year ended with December recording the low rainfall of only .33 of an inch of rain, compared with a normal fall of 1.97 inches for the December month.

Lack of rain plagued farmers throughout the area, and resulted last week in listing Madison County in a state request for drought relief.

January of the past year had only .76 of an inch of rainfall against a normal of 1.98 inches and February was only slightly better with 1.07 inches against a normal fall of 2.04 inches.

March brought 2.86 inches compared to a normal of 2.34 inches. March was one of only two months of the entire year to exceed normal rainfall.

April rainfall amounted to 1.45 inches—with a normal of 3.71 inches—and May had 2.43 inches, compared to a normal of 3.77 inches.

In June, rainfall amounted to 2.20 inches with a normal of 4.27 inches. The July fall amounted to 2.85 inches. Normal for July is 3.20 inches.

The month of August brought the heaviest rainfall of the year for any single month—amounting to 4.03 inches. August was the second month of the year in which rainfall exceeded the normal of 3.02 inches.

September was almost normal but not quite. A total of 2.58 inches of rain fell, compared to the normal of 2.76 inches.

In October there was 1.75 inches of rain with a normal of 2.86 inches, and in November rainfall was 1.45 inches with the normal 2.57 inches.

December recorded rainfall on only three days. .02 of an inch on Dec. 8, .27 of an inch on Dec. 9 and .04 of an inch on Dec. 10.

A trace of snow was recorded on Dec. 24 and Dec. 25, leaving the total fall for the month at .33 inches.

SEPTEMBER: Remodeling of the former Price-Crusher for the Unemployment and Job Service office was granted a permit for $78,645 and a permit was granted for a $69,590 project to remodel the interior of the burned-out Ted's Hardware building downtown for future occupancy by Bert's Audio-TV Showroom. A total of 103 permits were granted during the month with values totaling $400,935.

NOVEMBER: Building activity slowed as only 52 permits with values totaling $370,673 were granted. Highlights were a permit for a $60,000 addition to the Henry Ross Construction office at Tri-Mor Bowl, and two residential permits funding necessary to complete state studies of air quality in the three local counties.

Parrell commented that the degree of labor and contractor cooperation here is gaining widespread and favorable attention. Despite this, construction work would be impeded without some flexibility in air standards, he added.

Dr. Thornton said air classification here relates primarily to particulate matter (dust) in the air and the presence of sulfur dioxide (released during the burning of coal and oil).

"He described the federal program for PSD (prevention of significant deterioration in air quality) and told of the relationship of PSD increments to baseline pollutant concentration in Class I, II and III areas."

National air quality limits for sulfur dioxide were listed as 80 micrograms per cubic meter (annual arithmetic mean), 365 (24-hour standard) and 1,300 micrograms (three hours).

Particulate standards were given as 75 micrograms (annual geometric standard) and 260 (24 hours). While all of Madison County violates the particulate secondary standard, only the western fringes exceed the primary standard for particulate, Dr. Thornton said.

Reclassification, with eligibility determined primarily by the degree of sulfur dioxide in the air, would involve 12 Madison County townships, leaving the other 12 in Class II, it was related. Dr. Koepke reviewed potential industrial sites in the three counties and cited progress that has been made in improving air quality.

Despite strict air standards, "The Quad-City area is not wiped out in terms of industrial development," he emphasized.

Dr. Koepke also called attention to local residents' job prospects in Missouri. He cited studies showing 20, 40 and 60 percent out-of-state employment in various Quad-City residential neighborhoods.

Among the potential Illinois industrial sites discussed were the Kaskaskia Valley, offering coal, rail service and water shipping plus a buffer area from present industrial activity; the port area near the Jefferson-Burns Bridge; and the O'Fallon area east of Fairview Heights and north of Scott Air Force Base.

He said the area where Interstate 270 intersects with Interstates 55 and 70 is an air quality attainment area but is so near non-attainment sections that it could not add heavy industries without first offsetting existing pollution.

Dr. Koepke commented that river transportation continues to make the Quad-City area highly attractive to firms that can bring added economic development.

He said, "The 1977 amendments to the 1970 Clean Air Act certainly have not destroyed local development, although they obviously have limited and altered the kinds of development."

Again noting the many Illinoisans who work in St. Louis and St. Louis County, he stressed the importance of maintaining "convenient and economical mass transit."

Dr. Thornton showed projections of statistical models prepared regarding air quality in this region. He praised the attitude of the Illinois EPA in seeking to keep communities economically viable.

A detailed 1980 report that Dr. Thornton assembled on Missouri-Illinois air pollution meteorology and climatology concluded that "because of the interior location of metro-east in North America, this area is assured of sufficient atmospheric ventilation which acts to prevent serious and prolonged episodes of air pollution."

"An interior location in the middle latitude portions of the continent provides a consistent, moderate to fast movement of synoptic (regional) scale high pressure systems over and beyond metro-east as they move from west to east."

"If a high pressure system slows down and becomes relatively stagnant over portions of the east-central U.S., as they so often do in the summer and early fall, then the ventilation capability of the lower atmosphere is adversely affected. Stagnant high-pressure systems tend to depress the height the mixing layer and decrease wind velocity within this layer. "Degradation of either variable will decrease the ventilation capacity of the atmosphere to disperse and attenuate air pollution."

"Local variations of topography affect air pollution levels here. The population is concentrated in two areas: the American Bottoms (the Mississippi River floodplain) and the bluff line communities, located 40 to 65 feet higher than the American Bottoms area."

"Most of the industry in metro-east is located in the American Bottoms. Air pollution levels, as a result, tend to be higher there, not only because of industrial and population concentrations, but because of air drainage into the floodplain area from St. Louis and the bluff line communities. This local effect is especially noticeable with light winds blowing from southeasterly to southwesterly directions."

"Local phenomena, however, are not the dominant factors in determining air pollution levels. Regional scale meteorological phenomena are the determining factors. Whenever regional scale weather variables combine to dictate poor atmospheric ventilation capacity, local variables can only alter this type of ventilation slightly. At best, they can change air quality only moderately over areas of very limited spatial extent."

"Metro-east has experienced very few air pollution episodes in the last five years. "All of these (seven) have been yellow-stage ozone episodes. There has never been any yellow-stage episode relating to suspended particulates, sulfur dioxide or nitrogen oxide."

"The most severe stages in air pollution episodes, red and emergency, have never occurred in metro-east since the founding of the federal EPA in 1969."

"The low frequency and lack of intensity of air pollution episodes in metro-east attest to the fact that the local climatological characteristics encourage a fair degree of air quality most of the year in the greater St. Louis region."

1981 likely to bring 6 deaths from lightning

By RONALD CORNWELL
Lightning kills about six people in Illinois annually. This compares with an average of four people by tornadoes, and three persons by winter storms.

What is this supernatural force that lights up the heavens, burns down buildings, shatters trees and kills 150 persons a year in the U.S.?

In scientific terms, lightning is the result of an electrical charge build-up in the clouds and on the ground.

Negative charges tend to build up in the lower levels of clouds while positive charges build up in the upper clouds and on the ground. As thunderclouds develop and grow more intense, the electrical charges and voltages increase.

When thunderclouds move, the charge in the ground follows along below the cloud like a shadow. This ground charge runs up trees, buildings or any tall structure in an attempt to "get closer" to the opposite charge carried in the clouds.

The air is a good insulator. But when electrical charges build during a storm, the current finally overcomes this insulation. A lightning bolt then jumps between this "high spot" and the lower clouds.

Tall trees, hilltop trees or even small trees on flat ground can easily become the "highest point" when these charges build.

We all know about staying away from hilltops and tall trees during a storm. But what is a tree's chances of being struck, based on the kind of tree in the same location?

The International Society of Arborists say oaks are most likely to be hit, followed by elms, poplar, tulip trees, pines, ash and maple.

Progress toward better health

(Copyright 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By RENE DUBOS
A generation ago, there was almost universal faith in the miraculous power of modern medicine.

There have been numerous spectacular medical advances since then. Yet, paradoxically, it has become fashionable to downgrade the contributions of medicine to health.

Several learned physicians have even stated that the steady improvement in public health during this century has been brought about not by medicine, but by improvements in sanitation, nutrition, housing, and our general standard of living.

There is some truth in that statement. But it is also true that several diseases that used to kill large numbers of people can not be readily cured, thanks to modern medicine. I cite my own life as an example.

I was almost 70 years old when I wrote these lines. I walked several miles every day in any kind of weather. I climbed three flights of stairs to my office and had many national and international activities, carrying my own luggage wherever I traveled.

All this sounds as if I had always been in perfect health. But in fact I have been medically handicapped throughout my life.

At age eight, I contracted a severe sore throat and developed acute rheumatic fever that resulted in a heart lesion, the aortic valve.

This lesion, in spite of medicine and has made me a cardiac cripple, preventing me from playing the conventional games.

Ten years ago, I developed bacterial endocarditis, an inflammation of the heart membrane. This disease used to be uniformly fatal, but I recovered because it can now be successfully treated with antibiotics.

I have had several attacks of atrial fibrillation, or irregular muscle spasms of the heart, and in fact am fibrillating right now.

After each episode, I have tried to rehabilitate myself by progressively increasing my physical activities. I have been so successful that at age 78, before my last attack of fibrillation, I was physically more vigorous than ever before.

My medical history would have been very different had I been born fifty years later.

Laboratory tests would have shown that my initial sore throat was caused by a hemolytic streptococcus, and doctors would have known that infection with this microbe commonly leads to rheumatic fever.

I would have been immediately treated with an antibiotic and would never have suffered from rheumatic heart disease. In fact, as a result of modern medicine, this type of heart condition is becoming rare.

CHANGING CAUSES OF DEATH.

Until the end of the last century, a very large percentage of young people suffered and died from malnutrition and infection.

Today, in contrast, poor nutrition is no longer a significant problem in the United States except among very poor people or in fringe social groups.

The most destructive microbial plagues of the past have also been essentially brought under control. For example, tuberculosis, lobar pneumonia, streptococcus infections, typhoid fever, dysentery, smallpox, poliomyelitis and measles can either be prevented by sanitation and vaccination or cured by drugs.

As a result of the control of nutritional and microbial diseases, the causes of death are now completely different from what they were half a century ago.

For people under 40, the chief causes of death are no longer diseases, but homicide, suicide, automobile accidents, and other forms of violence.

After age 40, although deaths from violence continue to be common, more and more people die from a small variety of chronic and degenerative diseases, particularly arteriosclerotic heart disease, strokes, various forms of cancer, and cirrhosis of the liver.

The various causes of death now affect similarly black and white people in the United States, but their prevalence differs profoundly from one part of the world to another and changes with time.

During the 1970s, for example, the death rate from coronary heart disease was ten times higher in the United States than in Japan.

As is well known, lung cancer has been extremely high in American men for several decades and is beginning to increase in women, almost certainly as a result of smoking.

In contrast, cancers of the stomach and of the uterus have markedly decreased in the U.S., whereas they have remained high in several other countries.

HEALTH AND THE ENVIRONMENT.

Such differences and changes in the prevalence of fatal diseases make it obvious that these diseases are not the inevitable consequences of aging but are largely determined by environmental factors.

This conclusion is supported by the fact that ethnic groups who adopt American ways of life also acquire the disease patterns characteristic of Americans.

Social relationships are other aspects of the environment that affect health and disease.

People who are single, widowed, divorced, dissatisfied with their jobs, or undergoing life changes are more likely to need medical care than are people with a more satisfying life.

Thus, a person's state of health seems to be influenced by lifestyles and the quality of the environment.

To a large extent, we create our own environmental pollution when we smoke or eat junk food; many forms of stress come from our being envious of others or too ambitious.

CONTROL OF DISEASE. Nutritional and microbial diseases that used to be common in the past can be controlled by methods requiring little effort on the part of the person to be protected or treated—for example, by adding chlorine to public water supplies, giving appropriate vaccines, administering a drug, supplementing food with vitamins.

In contrast, it takes personal responsibility and a sense of discipline to control, over a whole lifespan, one's food and alcohol consumption, cigarette smoking, driving habits, physical exercise, and equanimity toward other people.

There are good reasons to be skeptical about the possibility of changing human behavior, but there are also reasons for hope.

Deaths from heart disease, which had steadily increased since the beginning of the century, began to decline in the 1960s and have continued to decline ever since.

This improvement may be due in part to the use of drugs against hypertension and to better handling of heart attack victims. But changes in our ways of life have probably also played a role.

Cigarette smoking has markedly decreased among adult men (although it is increasing among women and teenagers).

We have appreciably reduced the saturated fatty acids in our diet; and we may have increased our physical activity, as indicated by the popularity of jogging and other active sports.

The ideal goal of medical intervention is, of course, either to prevent disease or to achieve complete cure. There are many situations, however, in which medicine can contribute to the welfare of people, even though it cannot prevent or cure disease.

Medical care can relieve symptoms, by treating patients suffering from arthritis or hypertension with drugs and advising them as to the proper ways of life. It can facilitate rehabilitation by helping the patient to compensate for one or another handicap as he or she is able to do with my own cardiac insufficiency.

Finally, it can relieve anxiety by reassuring a patient, as my physician did when he told me that atrial fibrillation is compatible with a fairly normal life.

Disease is probably inevitable because we can never achieve perfect adaptation to the various environments in which we live.

I doubt, furthermore, that medicine can ever develop methods for the complete prevention or cure of all diseases.

But medicine will be increasingly capable of enabling patients to function comfortably and effectively even in the continued presence of organic disease—a goal at least as important as the prevention and cure of disease, or the addition of still more years to our lifespan.

EQUIPMENT TRAINING FOR AIRMAN REITER
Airman Barry J. Reiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reiter of 4015 Rode Ave., Granite City, has been assigned to Lowery Air Force Base, Colo., after completing six-week Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the intricate equipment maintenance field.

Thomas George is candidate

To be a spokesman for the people of the Third Ward, both young and old, is the main reason Thomas R. George, 34, of 1703 Elizabeth St., Madison, said he plans to be a candidate for alderman in Madison.

George announced his intentions to be a candidate today.

George commented: "I feel I have a good knowledge of the needs of the area, having lived my life in the Third Ward. I intend to make myself available to the people and meet regularly with them, in an effort to make the area the best possible place to live."

George is married and has two children.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George, a former Madison Third Ward alderman for several years.

His parents formerly operated George's Market, 1700 Edwardsville Road, Madison.

As a youth, George attended St. Mary's and Madison elementary schools and graduated from Madison High School. He has also attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

THOMAS GEORGE

and Lewis and Clark Junior College.

He is currently employed by the Shell Oil Co.

George will run against incumbent Third Ward Alderman Thomas Gordon.

Registration of aliens now more difficult

Aliens required to report their current United States address this January may find the procedure more difficult because of changes made by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The INS has eliminated several thousand postal facilities from its distribution list for Alien Address Report Cards and reduced the number of cards that will be sent to remaining post offices.

Only postal facilities in cities with a significant number of aliens reporting in 1980 will receive cards for 1981, the Postal Service said.

Postal facilities which do not receive the cards will not participate in the 1981 program. They will, however, assist customers by referring them to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office to obtain registration cards.

Church of God hosts revival

The Rev. Leman Crader of Marion, Ill., is the guest speaker at a revival now in progress at the Church of God of Prophecy in Madison, according to an announcement by the Rev. Eugene Hooker, host pastor.

Services begin at 7:30 each evening and will continue through Sunday, Jan. 11, the minister added.

Rev. Crader is a former pastor of the Madison church.

Rev. Hooker extends an invitation to area residents to attend the services each evening.

FIRST-AD COURSE TO START JAN. 19

A first-aid course sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau Women's Committee has been scheduled to begin Monday, Jan. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Farm Bureau building, 900 Hillsboro Ave., Edwardsville.

At the completion of the six-week course, a cardiopulmonary resuscitation course will be held. The courses are open to anyone and registration can be made by calling the Farm Bureau office at 1-656-5191, a spokesman said.

Converting trash to energy, cash

By JOHN D. BOOTH General Manager of Development
Bi-State Development Agency

Most people think their trash has no value. But Bi-State's Solid Waste Program could turn discarded trash into cash savings for private citizens and businesses in the Bi-State area.

The Solid Waste Program is the result of a suggestion made about ten years ago by community leaders who recognized that existing landfill space used to dump the almost 2.5 million tons of solid waste generated annually in this metropolitan area would eventually be used up.

They also recognized that it would be expensive and difficult to find new space for landfills; that the incinerators owned by St. Louis City were beyond their useful life and in violation of environmental standards; and that valuable energy and other recoverable resources were being squandered.

Initially, Union Electric, in a joint effort with St. Louis City, tried to solve this pressing problem.

The result of their efforts was the Union Electric-St. Louis Demonstration Project which developed a synthetic, refuse-derived fuel (RDF) for use in utility power plant boilers.

However, in 1977, Union Electric was forced by economic pressures to cancel plans to go from a demonstration project to full-scale operations at Labadie, Mo.

Bi-State was then asked to investigate the possibility of a similar Bi-State operation. Bi-State agreed to conduct a study of possible solutions to the waste problem.

When the study was completed, it was determined that the original Union Electric concept would be too risky to be financed.

However, the study did suggest alternative projects that would accomplish the same goal.

They will be smaller than the original Union Electric design, but their location will be closer to the sources of solid waste and markets for recoverable energy and other materials.

The proposed alternatives called for construction of a steam and electricity generating plant in St. Louis City which will receive about 1,900 tons of waste per day.

It will convert it into turbine-grade steam to be fed into Union Electric's downtown steam heating loop during the winter months, and to generate electricity during peak summer cooling months.

A second plant in South St. Louis County was also proposed.

This plant would convert about 750 tons of trash per day into refuse-derived fuel (RDF) to be burned with coal in UE's Meramec generating plant.

Both plants will use proven technologies and will be located away from residential neighborhoods. The areas with the most pressing solid waste disposal problems are the City of St. Louis, southern St. Louis County and northern Jefferson County.

However, the project will have some very definite benefits for the entire metropolitan area.

When the plants are in full operation, they will provide an economic alternative to our growing disposal problems by eliminating or greatly reducing the rise in costs of waste disposal problems by eliminating or greatly reducing the rise in costs of waste disposal in the St. Louis area.

They will also be an environmentally attractive alternative to landfilling. The downtown plant could stimulate economic growth, since it could reduce Union Electric's costs of producing steam.

Union Electric has about 300 or 400 customers downtown who buy steam mostly to heat their buildings and for use in manufacturing processes. UE buys oil and uses it as a fuel to make steam. As a result, steam costs have increased dramatically in the last few years.

We want to offer UE an alternative to escalating oil prices. Waste will be burned to produce steam at a more stable cost.

Stabilizing the cost of steam for businesses could determine whether or not they stay in the downtown area.

In addition, if St. Louis can provide steam at a stable cost, it could mean a lot to companies constructing new buildings or considering new manufacturing processes, in terms of locating in the St. Louis area.

Recently, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) granted Bi-State $407,000 to begin work on the implementation phase of the agency's Solid Waste Program.

The grant will cover about 50 percent of the $1 million cost for this phase of the project.

The grant from the EPA will be combined with funds from the U.S. Department of Energy and Bi-State.

These funds will be used in a 12-month preconstruction phase during which selection of plant sites, plus negotiation of contracts for plant construction, sale of the energy, and solid waste delivery to the plants will take place.

This second phase of the project will include detailed planning with prime contractors for carrying out the later stages of the project, analyzing in detail the solid waste available; updating the economic, technical and environmental impacts of the projects; and setting up project management plan to oversee completion of the projects.

Funding for actual construction of the plants will come from sale of tax-exempt revenue bonds and other sources of private capital.

No public debt or taxes will be imposed. Dr. Joseph Eigner, who has directed the planning and feasibility phase of Bi-State's Solid Waste Program, said, "The two plants will process about 40 percent of the waste generated in the metropolitan area, and could provide three to four percent of the metropolitan area's overall energy needs."

In addition to the sale of energy and other recoverable products, such as metals, a significant portion of the revenue will come from tipping fees, which trash haulers pay when they dump a load.

Bi-State will not be in competition with trash haulers, since Bi-State's role will be waste disposal, not waste collection.

"Since the St. Louis City incinerators are a burden to operate and do not meet environmental standards, the city will gain by not having to pay for hauling trash to distant landfills if the incinerators must be shut down," Eigner said.

Plans call for the downtown solid waste plant to have three furnaces.

They will be designed to process 31 tons of solid waste per hour. The eight existing city furnaces can only process four tons per hour and produce ash.

Eigner said, "About half of our total waste comes from homes, a third from commercial and institutional facilities, and one fourth from manufacturers."

"In most cases, the waste will be mostly paper. About eight percent by weight will be magnetic metals, and one percent nonferrous metals (metals that do not contain iron)."

"At the steam plant, the refuse may be lightly shredded and then passed over magnets to retrieve the magnetic metals, or they may be recovered from ash after burning."

"Projects in other cities have received such large items as motorcycles and Volkswagen cars."

"Our furnaces have to be big enough to accommodate all kinds of bulky wastes, and cranes must be used to remove such items from the ash."

"The only things that will be excluded are hazardous wastes. They will not be processed through the facility and will not be accepted."

"The new plants will not eliminate the need for some landfills, since the residues from the plants themselves must be dumped and the proposed plants will be capable of handling only 40 percent of the region's waste."

"But the residue will be environmentally safer, and the two solid waste plants will be much-improved facilities in comparison to existing landfills and the city incinerators."

Charles Houghton, Bi-State's executive director, said, "Bi-State's project schedule calls for all energy, waste and plant construction and operation contracts to be finalized in two years, culminating with the bond financing of the projects at an estimated cost of $175,000,000."

Construction and start-up will take about three years. "We hope to have the first project operational in 1985 or 1986," Houghton said.

Tax break for gasohol users

Illinois motorists who use gasohol will enjoy a tax break for the next few years as a result of legislation signed into law by Governor James R. Thompson.

The new law intended to encourage sales of alcohol from agricultural products—removes the four percent state sales tax from gasohol until July 1, 1982, when the tax will be reinstated in four stages, explained J. Thomas Johnson, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The tax will be reimposed at the following rate, he said: July 1, 1982, one percent; July 1, 1983, two percent; July 1, 1984, three percent; July 1, 1985 and thereafter, four percent.

The law does not affect the other taxes levied on motor fuels, Johnson pointed out. The 7.5 cent motor fuel tax, local sales taxes of up to one percent, and the Regional Transportation Authority tax levied in Cook and surrounding counties remain in effect, he said.

PISTOL IS TAKEN

A .22 caliber blue steel pistol was taken by a burglar who broke door glass at the Allen Charbonnier home, 244 Edwards St., it was discovered last week. Also taken were two bottles of whiskey, seven cards full of dimes, a $50 sapphire tie tack and 10 to 15 rolls of pennies.

New self-help plan to kick smoking habit

(Illinois Lung Association)

It takes true grit to make most New Year's resolutions stick. Especially resolutions about quitting smoking.

But that doesn't mean keeping no-smoking resolutions has to be a grim business.

Quite the opposite, say the Christmas Seal people. What they have developed is a new approach to quitting that highlights the upbeat aspects of practicing healthier lifestyles.

In mid-January, the American Lung Association is launching nationwide its new self-help program for smokers everywhere who want to kick the habit.

Called "Freedom from Smoking," the program emphasizes nutrition, exercise, personal rewards, assertiveness, and the positive benefits of saying "no thanks" to cigarettes. It offers a nuts-and-bolts way to quit smoking in 20 days—and make it stick for a lifetime.

Nine out of ten smokers say they would quit if there were a workable way. The problem is when and how to quit.

The lung association believes it has developed a way to help smokers answer those questions for themselves. Whenever smokers are ready now.

Most smokers quit by trying again and again, says the lung association. They are, in effect, practicing quitting. Smokers who have tried to quit several—or plenty—of times are regarded as good candidates for Freedom from Smoking. Wanting to quit, say the Christmas Seal people, is the key to success. But sometimes finding how to quit can be crucial to the outcome.

County employees' union will not oppose election

By ED GURNEY

The union representing most Madison County employees has decided not to appeal a judge's ruling that the county board must join in a request for an election to see if the employees want to change unions.

"If (an appeal) would be more long and drawn out than going ahead with an election," said Pam Dymas of Madison, president of Local 799 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. Local 799 represents about 400 county employees.

"She said it is now up to the county board to decide whether to go along with the court order."

Associate Judge John Day on Dec. 26 ordered the county board to join with Teamsters Local 525 in requesting that the Illinois Department of Labor hold a new recognition election. The county board apparently will decide on the matter at its Jan. 21 meeting.

Herbert Milton (D-Granite City), chairman of the county board's negotiating committee, said the board is awaiting the opinion of the state's attorney's office. Milton's committee was said to be close to reaching a new contract agreement with AFSCME when Day issued a temporary injunction, last month. The injunction stopping negotiations remains in effect.

Mrs. Dymas said the fact employees would have to wait even longer for their raises is one reason the decision was made not to appeal Day's decision. The old contract expired Nov. 30.

The teamsters say that approximately half of the county employees have signed cards asking for the new election. The IDOL told the Teamsters, however, that either AFSCME or the county board would have to join it in requesting the election.

The county board had said it did not object to a new election, but it did not want to get involved in what it termed a fight between two unions.

Day had said he made his decision in the absence of any law in Illinois that covers this situation. He said that because of the county board's position and the understandable reluctance of the rival union (AFSCME) to join the request, it seemed almost impossible to change unions.

Madison cable TV work to start

Work on the Madison city-operated cable television should begin within the next two weeks.

The city council Tuesday evening awarded a low bid contract of $9,695 for a lift service body for a cable TV truck to Sky Dart Corp. of Oleny, Texas.

The council also awarded a low bid contract for the truck chassis to B. E. Hohl at $8,873.

Numerous other bids were awarded to ten companies, at low bid, for various supplies for the cable TV system. These bids and contracts are available at the city comptroller's office for interested parties to examine if they wish.

Actual work on the project, which will take several months to complete, will begin in two weeks.

The first thing to be done will be to strand the metal wire supports for the cable on the poles. Then the cable will be put on the poles.

The next step is to splice in the couplers, amplifiers, bridges, lines, extenders and splitters.

The Tocom emergency system will then be installed. This will provide protection

Mrs. Dymas said it is not certain how soon a new election could be held. Signatures on the teamsters' cards, made as long ago as last March, will have to be checked out by the IDOL, she said.

She said her union will be trying to convince employees to stay with AFSCME.

"We feel we can win," she said. "I don't think after people stop and think about it, we'll have any trouble winning it."

and alert devices to protect against burglaries and fires. A panic alarm button will be installed.

After Tocom is installed on the lines a building will be constructed behind the Madison hall, 1519 Third St., Madison.

The building will house equipment for the operation and storage of supplies.

After the building is up, the earth station, a large dish which picks up signals from the satellite and puts them into the cable, will be put in place.

Following the above listed multitude of projects the cable TV will be turned on for local use.

Mike Macek is coordinating the installation of the cable TV program in Madison.

Madison listed among drought counties

Governor James R. Thompson has requested that the Small Business Administration (SBA) declare 69 Illinois counties, including Madison, disaster areas to assist farmers emergency loans for reduced crop yields due to a lack of rainfall and drought conditions beginning with the fall of 1979.

The counties are Adams, Alexander, Bond, Brown, Calhoun, Champaign, Clark, Clay, Clinton, Coles, Crawford, Cumberland, DeWitt, Douglas, Edgar, Edwards, Effingham, Fayette, Ford, Franklin, Fulton, Gallatin, Greene, Hamilton, Hancock, Hardin, Iroquois, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Jersey, Johnson, Kankakee, Knox, Lawrence, Livingston, Logan, McDonough, McLean, Macon, Macopin, Madison, Marion, Mason, Massac, Monroe, Montgomery, Moultrie, Peoria, Perry, Piatt, Pike, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, Richland, St. Clair, Saline, Schuyler, Shelby, Tazewell, Union, Vermilion, Wabash, Washington, Wayne, White, Williamson and Woodford.

In the 69 counties, an estimated 130,000 farms were affected by the heat and drought, accounting for 90 percent of all farms in those counties and 75 percent of all farms statewide.

An estimated 12.2 million crop acres were affected, resulting in 25 to 50 percent yield reduction. Many poultry and livestock procedures also were hard hit by the heat and drought conditions. More than 18,000 hogs and 28,000 chickens died due to overheating and suffocation.

In a letter to SBA Regional Director, Donna Harrigan, Thompson said many farmers replanted when seeds germinated poorly due to lack of rain, but that the new crop was also subjected to drought conditions and significant losses were sustained.

An earlier request for 79 counties was made by Governor Thompson to the Farmers Home Administration (FMA) in August and was approved.

The FMA emergency loan declaration, however, only made assistance available to farm operators if credit could not be obtained commercially.

If the SBA declaration is obtained, loans will be available both to farm operators and farm owners at the rate of five percent if the operators cannot qualify for commercial credit, or at eight and one-quarter percent, if the borrower could obtain credit elsewhere.

The county of Cass, Christian, Grundy, Kendall, LaSalle, Menard, Morgan, Sangamon, Scott and Will were included in the August FMA declaration but not in the SBA request. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service indicated that damages were severe in these 10 counties, based on actual crop yields and the volume of FMA loan requests.

SBA approval of a county for its loan program also means that adjacent counties are included as well.

New hours for bus information

Effective today, the Bi-State Development Agency has new hours of operation for its telephone information service. The new hours are from 6:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday.

Donald Schmitt, director of transit information for Bi-State, said, "The purpose of the change is to serve the greatest number of persons without increasing costs."

"New telephone equipment has allowed us to take a close look at our peak demand periods. While we will be open one hour less each day, we are assigning more personnel during peak periods and will actually be able to serve more people."

In the last two years, the bus information service has handled over one million calls annually for route and schedule information.

Bi-State's telephone service operates seven days a week with the exception of Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Thanksgiving Day, Labor Day Memorial Day and July 4.

For route and schedule information, Quad-Cityans may call 875-4144 toll free.

Hearings on school funds and regions

Public hearings on two issues facing Illinois schools have been scheduled in Springfield this month by the Illinois State Board of Education.

Public testimony will be presented Monday, Jan. 12, on the functions and structure of county and multi-county educational service regions and Tuesday, Jan. 13, on the proposed 1981-82 fiscal year budget for schools.

Both hearings will be in the board's Springfield office at 100 N. 1st St., fourth floor.

On Jan. 12, from 1 to 4 p.m., the board's legislative committee will hear comments on proposals for restructuring the service regions.

In 1979, the General Assembly directed the board to review the functions of the educational regions and to present a report and recommendations.

The board submitted its report to the General Assembly in February 1980, but requested an extension of time in order to develop specific legislative recommendations.

On Jan. 13, from 9 a.m. to noon, the board's budget committee will solicit comments and suggestions on State Superintendent of Education Donald Gill's draft budget for elementary, secondary, adult and vocational education.

The proposed budget requests an increase of $15,700,000 (5.5 percent) in state spending for schools. The major share of the new funding would go for general state aid to school districts. The budget requests a total of $2.4 billion.

Luke 2:51... "An he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them."

One of the greatest teachings in the Bible is that of family loyalty. Christian families should exemplify love and unity.

Our homes are the very best places on earth to demonstrate love, compassion, patience, and understanding. As we give out of our spirit to our loved ones we learn in a measure how God gives out of His Spirit to us.

Even though Christ was the Son of God he was still subject to his earthly parents Joseph and Mary. One of God's commandments is Honor thy Father and thy Mother that thy days on earth may be long.

Effective discipline in the Christian home is the introduction of control into the life of a child. Parents who are subject to God and his word demonstrate self-discipline to their children.

Self control is the only way to fully enjoy the abundant life that Jesus gives to us. The old saying, like father, like son, is so very true. It is what we say to our children that greatly influences them. It is what we do that they learn. If we as adults are subject to God's teaching it is most likely that our children will follow the same example.

Consistency is the real key to success. Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it. Give that training day by day, week by week, year by year, and chances are you'll wind up with an obedient, disciplined, born again child.

Make this your year of commitment to that goal. May God bless and give each of you happy homes.

Links between smoking, heart attacks, emphysema

(Illinois Heart Association) Data from numerous studies confirm the judgment that cigarette smoking is a significant risk factor in deaths resulting from coronary heart disease, stroke, cancer and emphysema.

There is evidence that cigarette smoking may accelerate pre-existing changes of coronary heart disease and may contribute to sudden death. Autopsy studies also suggest that cigarette smoking is associated with a significant increase in hardening of the main arteries supplying blood to the heart.

The most important cause of chronic obstructive bronchopulmonary disease in the United States is identified as cigarette smoking. This disease increases the risk of dying from pulmonary emphysema and contributes to chronic bronchitis.

The smoking of cigarettes does not appear to be related to death from bronchial asthma, although it may increase the frequency and severity of asthmatic attacks in patients already suffering from this.

The main cause of lung cancer in men is listed as cigarette smoking. And studies reveal that the risk of developing lung cancer increases with the number of cigarettes smoked per day. Ex-cigarette smokers have significantly lower death rates for lung cancer than continuing smokers, and the cessation of smoking is associated with decreased risk of death from coronary heart disease.

Washing your wool sweaters

By CATHERINE MAUCK
County
Homemaking Adviser
With dry cleaning costs for wool sweaters running between $1.50 and $3, you may want to spend a few minutes learning how to hand-laundry the sweater — and other wool garments — and chalk up your savings toward your next clothing purchase.

Wool sweaters should be allowed to air out after each wearing before being put away. Remove any spots or stains immediately. Food spots often can be brushed loose when dry, or sponged off using mild detergent and water.
Sweaters should be folded and placed in a drawer or on a shelf. Never hang a sweater on a hanger because that causes stretching and distortion.

When the sweater needs cleaning, make a pattern of its original shape by tracing the outline of the sweater on a heavy piece of paper.
The outline is used to block the sweater back to its original shape after it has been washed. You can label this outline and keep it on hand for future use.

Next, fill a basin with lukewarm water — between 95 and 105 degrees Fahrenheit — and add a mild, neutral pH liquid detergent according to package directions.
Wool garments should never be washed with chlorine bleach because the bleach will damage the woolen fibers and cause a harsh, rough texture and turn the garment yellow.

Pure wool is never stark white. As wool ages, it oxidizes to a rich, creamy color is produced.
Be careful not to use too much detergent because it is difficult to rinse out completely.
Using hot rinse water and excess rubbing also should be avoided because they may cause shrinkage.

Soiled spots can be pretreated with a small amount of detergent diluted with water. Then, soak the sweater for 5 to 10 minutes, gently squeezing suds
through the sweater occasionally.
However, to preserve the shape of the article, avoid twisting, wringing or rubbing wool garments when they're wet.
The sweater should then be rinsed twice in clean, lukewarm water and gently squeezed to remove excess

water.
Next, lay the sweater on a dry towel and roll the towel and sweater up together.
Wait several minutes so that excess moisture will be absorbed, and then place the sweater on the heavy paper pattern you drew earlier. Pin the sweater to the pattern to block it to its original shape.
Allow the sweater to dry away from direct heat and sunlight. Do not remove the sweater from the paper until the garment is completely dry. Touch-up pressing can be done with a steam iron.

While you may think this process sounds like a lot of trouble, you'll find it only takes about 20 minutes. And you can save time by planning to wash several woolen garments during the same work session.

Steelers stay perfect with dual meet victory

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

ST. LOUIS — Granite City North remained undefeated in dual meets (10-0) here last night with a 39-19 victory over Parkway West High. And the Steelers had to deal with one of their most physical opponents of the season to do it.

"They show a lot of muscle over here," said North head coach Walt Whitaker. "Their pretty tough physically. But that's the way I like it this time of the season."

"We have two or three brothers on our schedule and I'd just as soon not have any more the rest of the way. We have to start working hard now for the districts."

North's "Big Four" wrestlers were in form against Parkway. The four, Mike Robinson (105 pounds), Gerald Miller (112), Steve Smith (119) and Scott Corey (155), have a combined record of 88-7 this season. Each won his bout last night.

North's Greg Nemeth (98) and Dave Owens (heavyweight) has easier bouts than anybody — they didn't have any. Both gained forfeit wins since Parkway didn't have wrestlers at those weights. "I don't like it anytime," said Whitaker. "But especially right now in the middle of the season. It doesn't do the kids any good."

They need the wrestling experience right now."

Robinson got things started for the Steelers at 105 with a pin over Dave Griffin in 2:55 of their bout. The win raised his record to 15-1. Miller was up next and upped his mark to 15-1 with a 2:58 pin of Mark Waldron. Then it was Smith's turn at 119 pounds. He won a 7-3 decision over Parkway's Tom VanTaigla.

Rod Unger won the 126 pound bout with a 9-2 decision over Parkway's Pete Sickinger. North's Steve Gibson lost his 132 pound bout to Steve Sines when he was pinned at the 4:20 mark.

At 138, Glenn Thompson got the Steelers back on the winning track with a 3-09 pin of Scott Vogt. But Bryan Corey lost the 145 pound bout to Scott Reese when he dropped a 1-0 decision.

Scott Corey upped his record to 14-3 with a 5-1 decision over Mike McKibben.

North lost the 167 and 185 pound bouts. Bob Patton lost at 167 by a pin at 3:38 to Gary Messinger and Tim Wyrstek lost a 12-2 decision to Dave Orbersch.

"We lost a couple bouts I thought we'd probably win," said Whitaker. "I thought Tim (Wyrstek) might win, but he ran into a pretty tough kid. It's hard moving their (Parkway's) kids around on the mat."

Whitaker said the Steelers' first action since finishing second to Granite City South in the annual Granite City Holiday Tournament. "We like to have a tough match, right after the holiday," said Whitaker. "We want to get right back into things."

"We're right about where I thought we'd be this time of the season," he said.

Trojans rolling

By JIM CAGLE

ST. JACOB — It looks like the Triad High School custodians will have to replace the basketball nets for the next game. The Madison Trojans burned out the old ones here Tuesday night. The Trojans shot a blazing 66 percent from the field on the way to downing the Knights 87-66.

Both teams held true to form here Tuesday — Madison proved it deserved the No. 2 ranking it got in the latest state Class A basketball poll and Triad once again lost by an extremely wide margin.

This makes three losses in a row and four out of the last five for the now 9-5 Knights, who have lost those five games by an average of 18.2 points per game.

Madison raised its record to 10-1.

The game was not quite as lopsided as the score indicates. From the rim down to the floor, the Knights played the Trojans even up. But it was up in the 11 and 12 foot range that the game was decided. Up above the rim, the Knights ran into double GRANITE CITY — The Madison Trojans regained their "king of the hill" status as the top Class A (small school) basketball team in the area, according to this week's Press-Record Prep Coaches Poll.

Winning the prestigious Centralia Holiday Tournament, the Trojans were a unanimous pick, collecting all five first place votes and finished six points ahead of second team Oakville. The Trojans had been the top vote-getter before the holidays, but Madison's triumph in Centralia played a big part among the panel of coaches.

North drops two

EDWARDSVILLE — It was an act that just wasn't followed. The Granite City North girls basketball team looked good in its season opener Tuesday at home against Cahokia, even though the Steelers took a loss. They weren't so fortunate last night. The roof fell in and North was smothered in its second Gateway East Conference clash by the Edwardsville Tigers, 60-33 here.

The Steelers did have some bright spots, but the whole show belonged to Amy Armstrong and Iris Schoenleber of Edwardsville. If it's true that small things pack a big wallop, then Armstrong and Schoenleber are prime candidates.

Armstrong stands at a mere 5-7 and Schoenleber is one of the smallest members on the Tiger team at 5-3, but the pair used their remarkable quickness and agility to weave in and out of the Steeler corp. "We're building our offense around these two," said Edwardsville head coach Sharon Petty. "Amy is our outside strength and Iris basically works on the fast break."

However, Schoenleber's court knowledge enabled the Tigers to run their offense and blow North out of the game in the third quarter. "Iris has excellent 'game sense,'" said Petty. "She's the best ball player by far on our team and she's going to become the best player ever to play at Edwardsville."

Before fouling out, Schoenleber dropped in 17 points and helped the Tigers run off 12 unanswered tallies near the close of the third frame.

The barrage of points completely broke the Steeler momentum which was building midway through the third period. Down 33-17, North used its height advantage to the fullest, as Cindy Goeller and Trina Davis muscled the Steelers back in the game. Hitting for eight straight points, North cut the Tiger lead to eight, giving Petty reason for a time-out. Edwardsville then came out with all guns blazing.

"The team that played out here tonight was not the same team that played against Cahokia," said North head coach Harry Cook. "They didn't do anything I told them to do during that time-out. I just don't know what the problem was."

An answer might be the Tiger's Armstrong. Using a very effective quick release one-hershot, the senior drilled two buckets with one second left in the each of the third and fourth quarters. Her 13 for 22 performance netted her with a game high 26 points.

South girls could be tops

GRANITE CITY—He was put into a new position, but not a new situation. Gary Morgan has taken over the head coaching job of the Granite South girls basketball team this season and he couldn't be happier. As the assistant coach in 1980, Morgan helped, the then head man, Norm Grote, as the Warriors have won 143 record before losing to the eventual state champions of East St. Louis Lincoln in the regionals. But, in 1981, Morgan has the reins and he has been blessed with an abundance of experience.

Susan Bell, Betty Bush and Laura Gabriel have all been lost to graduation. However, the Warriors still have seven seniors on this year's squad. "I have no complaints about this team," said Morgan. "I really like it, being head coach and we get along fine."

I have a very good working relationship with the girls. They are mature and intelligent. They're easy to deal with and easy to coach. Things are looking mighty good for Morgan in his rookie season. But, he does have some areas on the team that need to be enhanced. The loss of Bulva and Gabriel took away a lot of the rebounding strength South had last year. They were the number two and three rebounders. "We have to find some way to take up the slack in our rebounding," said Morgan. "They have to prove to be that they can rebound."

Even though the Warriors have lost two-thirds of their muscle, their leading scorer, Traci Parker, has remained. Chris Boyd looks to be the center of talent on the South squad. Leading the Warriors in scoring and rebounding last year, the senior will be the mainstay again. "Chris is the nucleus of the team," said Morgan. "She is the best player in the entire area as far as I'm concerned. She's including some of the girls from East St. Louis and I think most coaches will agree with me. When you have a star, you use the star." Morgan plans to get full use of his multi-talented player. But, according to him, Boyd is not beside herself. "Should Chris get sick or foul out in a game, we'll have the depth to combat her loss. We'll always need one other person to do well, because Chris won't be able to pull the whole team."

In addition to Boyd, the Warrior's other seniors include Nita Graham, Natalie Buster, Kathy Feigl, Sikora, Terry Schueler and Susan Jeffries. "We have two for sure senior starters," said Morgan, "but five other seniors as backup." The Warriors have the experience, they have the depth and with that much going for them, they're ready to start their season. "The girls are really anxious to start," said Morgan. "They have ready to play since before the holidays. We are at a real disadvantage, too, because some of the other we play in the beginning have already started and the girls realize this."

The Warriors open their season tonight at home against Belleville East. Varsity tip-off time is 8 p.m. Junior Varsity will start at 6:30 p.m. The Lancers start a schedule that will give South plenty of work. "East is a good team. They beat us in overtime last year. Belleville West will be good and, of course, Lincoln will always be tough. But this year, we'll respect these teams instead of being afraid of them." With basically the same girls back from last season, Morgan can only see an improvement. Could an undefeated season be in line for South? "This would be a major challenge," said Morgan. "I would never predict this, though. When you have seven seniors and only one junior and five sophomores, there's a pretty big separation between experience." Morgan expects a good year, but he has set his sights at some goals. "We are aiming at the end of the year," said Morgan. "We want to do something in the regionals and sectionals. But, we hope to produce."

It looks like South has everything it takes to be successful. "We have the talent and desire to do it all," said Morgan. "I think that desire is these girls' greatest asset."

Madison speedsters ready

of the Press Record
MADISON—You might think track season doesn't start until the spring, but you're wrong. The sense of the sport is brewing within the Madison High School gym and the Trojan girls basketball team.

"We have always been hurtling because of our lack of speed," said Madison head coach Carol Stearns. "We have been committed this year to be a fast break team, so we have really been working on conditioning. Whenever we played a team like Collinsville, who ran the ball, we never could hang with them. But, this year we can run against anyone."

The addition of winged feet might be the biggest turn for the Trojan's 11-7 season of a year ago. And the main contributors of the newly found speed didn't really play that much varsity ball last year. In fact, they were junior varsity players.

Senior Lessa Lovett and junior Traci Parker have given Madison what it needed to become a good ball team. "Lessa and Traci are really quick," said Stearns. "They get the ball out and go. I would have to say that they are the most dynamic the biggest asset for the team."

Stearns feels the additional speed will make her bigger girls faster, too. "They tend to drag," said Stearns. "But Lovett and Parker motivates them to run. When you can do that, you're in business." Madison used its new talent to capture its season opener against Wood River, 53-43, Monday. "We did a lot of good things, but we did a lot of bad things, too," said Stearns. "Our offense looked real good. We had good shots. They just didn't fall. We took 15 shots in the first quarter and got only six points. But, I wasn't concerned, because our offense is good from either the outside or inside. It was the defense that looked awful."

Stearns knew the defense would be a problem, even before the season started. "I could them in practice," said Stearns. "They were just didn't move their feet."

That's exactly what happened in the game. Our defense will be our weakest point. We needed some game experience to finally find out what we were supposed to do. More game exposure might help the Trojan defense as Stearns is trying to make a commitment to be an all-around team. Madison already has the scoring down, with three girls hitting in double figure against Wood River. "We'll have a balanced scoring, no matter if they are hitting from the inside or out," said Stearns. The Trojan's big gun will be junior Nancy Mikolazuk. "She's the type of player that doesn't get nervous. She's a cool player who knows what to do. The whole team looks to her. We would have to be my most steady ball player."

As an example how divided the Trojans scoring will be, Mikolazuk wasn't even the leading scorer against Wood River. Even though, she did have nine assists, Senior Laura Brown threw in a game high 16 while Mikolazuk added 13 and sophomore Ruth Jacks chipped in 12. Jacks, by the way, played varsity as a freshman last year.

"I really feel pleased with them, especially Brown," said Stearns. "She blossomed out from last year and came alive."

However small, the Tigers played bigger than they looked. At 5-10, Dearyle Reising grabbed a team high 11 rebounds while Armstrong added nine. Edwardsville even outrebounded the Steelers, 46-43. Goeller kept the boards clean for North with a game high 16 rebounds. This was in addition to leading the club in scoring with 13.

South on top of wrestling poll

GRANITE CITY—Even though Granite City South and Granite City North haven't met on the wrestling mat in a dual meet yet this season, the competition in the Press-Record Prep Wrestling Poll would have to build the suspense for the meeting, Thursday, Feb. 5 at South.

In a see-saw battle, the Warriors maintained their top spot in this week's poll, the best team in the area, according to the board of prep wrestling coaches. South, coming off what head coach Bill Schmitt called a "pleasant surprise" by winning its own holiday tournament, racked up its first place votes. The Warriors are currently 6-1 on the season. Despite its perfect 9-0 mark, North finished second to South in the holiday tourney and thus placed behind the Warriors in the P-R Poll. Just three points separated the two squads as the Steelers collected one first place vote.

Hatter has a rather unconventional shooting style. His jumpers were shot from behind his right ear and more often than not there was very little spin on the ball. He was always fading either one way or another, but his awkward-looking style in no way prevented the ball from going through the hoop.

As one Triad player put it, "When you're shooting down the basket all the time, I guess it doesn't have to look pretty."

Triad played a good game defensively, but they just couldn't sky with the Trojans. Eric Walker tried, though. The 5-9 guard went right up with a jump shot and first dunk attempt and got a good piece of the ball. Unfortunately, he also got a

Steelerettes hope for improvements

GRANITE CITY—The Granite North girls basketball team could have a good season in 1981. However, it must make it through this year's season first. One that prompts head coach Harry Cook to look at it with "cautious optimism."

Cook will have to deal with a young team. A team that will be playing all 11 underclassmen except for one senior. A team that will have three starters seeing varsity action for the first time and yet have the Cahokia Comanches a good game, although losing 58-47 Tuesday in the Steeler's season opener (see related good piece of Hatter, who ended up powering the ball through anyway and then swishing the free throw to cap the three-point play.

Triad's 6-6 center Mark Martz tried, too. But his attempts at blocking the Trojans shots also proved futile as he was called for goal tending twice in the game.

Triad travels to Highland to take on the St. Paul Vikings Saturday, while Madison visits East St. Louis Assumption Friday at 8 p.m. sophomores Kim Fountain, who Cook thinks will be his rotating starter, Barb Harvey and Barb Detmer.

No superstar or outstanding player, but Cook has a good feeling about this team. "I'll continue to look for improvement," said Cook. "We're not going to be push-overs like we were last year. We don't have that one girl that will score 20 or 25 points a game, but we'll have a balanced scoring attack. We don't have any way to go but up."

In addition to facing crosstown rival Granite South twice, North will have to tackle a 16 game schedule that includes an invitational tournament in Collinsville.

In order to combat this rough slate of games, the young Steelerettes will have a starting line-up that includes their only senior, Cindy Goeller, two juniors, Paula French and Christa Gargac and two sophomores, Trina Davis and Tammy Evans.

Cook has only four other girls on the varsity squad in junior Lola Burton and

Delay in leasing old jail suggested

The Madison County Board will be asked this month to delay leasing the old county jail at Edwardsville to the Goshen Preservation Alliance for three to six months, while a formal lease is prepared and studied.

The county board voted in July to lease the sheriff's residence at the jail and the original cellblock to the GPA, but the lease has never been signed.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, legal advisor to the county board, is recommending that the jail be leased only under "a gentlemen's agreement" to the association while problems concerning insurance, building maintenance and other matters are worked out.

Smith said it should be made clear that no tax money will be spent renovating or restoring the 10-year old jail, unless the public agrees in a referendum to a higher tax rate to maintain the facility.

The Goshen Preservation Alliance has pledged that no county money would have to be used for the jail, once the GPA is leased or sold the building.

Another concern Smith has expressed in a letter to the county board is that the building should be insured for its replacement value, instead of the market value, which would require a much higher insurance premium. Neither of the previous two draft leases for the building, prepared by former Assistant state's attorney Don Smith, provided for insurance or maintenance, he noted.

The "gentlemen's agreement" Marshall Smith is suggesting would give either party the option of "backing out" at any time, since it would not be a binding legal document. The county would have the right to demolish the old building at any time, under such an agreement, he said.

Some county board members would like to see the building to the highest bidder and see it torn down. The GPA believes the building has historical significance and should be saved and restored.

The county board is to meet Wednesday, Jan. 21, at 9:30 a.m. It is not known if the jail matter will be considered at that time.

The jail was the subject of a heated county board buildings committee meeting Wednesday, in which Mike Manning of Edwardsville, who has no official connection with the county or the preservation group, called for the resignation of Friday of Buildings Committee Chairman Charles Bode and County Director of Administration Mary Kane, contending they have been stalling the preservationists and treating them, "like poorly behaved children."

He alleged Mrs. Kane led to him when he had asked why windows were left open in the third floor of the sheriff's residence. He said she answered that a fire prevention official suggested keeping the windows open to reduce the chance of fire.

Manning said fire officials he talked with said such a suggestion would be ridiculous. Mrs. Kane later declined to say who gave her the advice, but said she was offended by Manning's accusation.

The "gentlemen's agreement" Marshall Smith is suggesting would give either party the option of Higher education funds 'inadequate'

The chancellor of Southern Illinois University on Tuesday praised the Illinois Board of Higher Education staff for permitting "fair and meaningful participation" by state universities in higher education budget planning for the next fiscal year. But he said IBHE recommendations for faculty and staff salary increases don't meet real needs.

Kenneth A. Shaw said a 10.3 salary increase package recommended by the IBHE Tuesday will fall short of what that figure seems to promise because it's being calculated on 90 percent of universities' existing salary base.

The IBHE custom in recent years has been to peg salary increases to less than the budget where the difference to be accounted for by position turnovers and attrition during any budget year.

Dr. Shaw told IBHE members in Chicago, Tuesday—at the annual meeting where university budget recommendations are approved and sent on to Springfield—that the 90 percent-of-existing salary hike formula means SIU will have to make up nearly $550,000 from other funds in order to cover raises at 10.3 percent.

He made salary increases, including catch-up money for lower-paid employees, SIU's top priority when he announced budget plans last year.

The net effect of the IBHE's 90 percent formula, Dr. Shaw said Tuesday, is to "significantly understate the most important consideration in our overall budget request."

"Much of the raise money now must come from university-generated funds, not newly committed state resources."

"As much as we want every penny of the proposed salary increase, the $550,000 will have to be made up in one or more of the following ways: elimination, freezing or downgrading of positions; reduction in services; fewer support expenditures; and additional tuition increases."

"In times of austerity," Dr. Shaw said, "we do not need greater constraints which limit our choices in management for funds."

SIU asked for salary increases totaling $14 million. The IBHE endorsed budget recommendations that call for $10.3 million to cover faculty and staff increases.

Nine percent of that would be for general raises and 1.3 percent would be distributed as catch-up increases. Average raises to administrators would be limited to no more than nine percent.

Dr. Shaw said the IBHE has acknowledged that inflation may grow by more than 10 percent in the 1981-82 budget year that starts July 1, with the result that the catch-up factor would be watered down by at least a full percent. The half percent left would then have to come from internal reallocations, because of the funding formula.

He said SIU's request was a realistic statement of its true budget needs, which he said SIU has "a responsibility to express clearly and unequivocally."

"Policy makers need to know that salary levels have fallen behind inflation by 14 to 20 percent since 1971. They need to be aware of the discrepancy of a support budget swollen by inflation, and the bare bones action possible with resources received."

Dr. Shaw said SIU has been forced repeatedly to tap funds budgeted for other necessities in order to pay operating bills like those for fuel and power, bloated by inflation beyond original budget allocations.

Universities run into two dangers if they downplay real needs and send in "what we can get" budget requests, he said.

"One is that policy makers begin to believe they know our true needs when they really don't. The second is that they begin to believe that we aren't hurting all that much, when in fact we really are."

SIU requested $168.2 million for system-wide operations in 1981-82, a 14.7 percent increase over the current operating budget. The IBHE recommendation cuts approximately $7 million from the request.

Of the resulting $161.3 million proposed for the SIU system, $2 million is to come from a flat 10 percent tuition hike recommended by the IBHE for all state universities.

Sanitary district posts budgets of $2.3 million

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record
The Metro-East Sanitary District has posted tentative budgets for 1981 totaling $2,338,950, which are $243,779 lower than last year's budgets, which totaled $2,582,729.

Final action on the budgets by the district's board of commissioners is anticipated at the Jan. 27 board meeting.

The district, which operates on a calendar year budget, had $83,450 cash on hand in the general fund Jan. 6, 1981, and anticipates income of $1,397,225 during the year. However, expenditures budgeted total $1,482,500 from the general fund, so a deficit of $85,275 is projected, which will require borrowing at the end of the fiscal year.

The projected deficit is far lower than the $306,633 deficit which was projected for the end of the last fiscal year in the general fund.

General fund expenditures are down $38,837 in the new budget, from $1,521,337 in 1980 to a proposed $1,482,500 for 1981. The decline is primarily due to a $390,550 drop in project costs, which was reduced from $1,130,550 in 1980 to $740,000 in the new budget. Primarily because the Environmental Protection Agency no longer expects the sanitary district to repair the major Cahokia trunk sewer line.

The district had a grant to repair the line, but the grant demanded that a matching share of the funds be compensated for by manpower and equipment from the sanitary district. After the board of commissioners insisted it had no money and could not provide the manpower to repair the broken line, the EPA withdrew its grant and the sanitary district was able to reduce its budget for project costs.

Another factor in the budget reduction for projects was the taking over of the Cooper Street lift station by the city of Cahokia, district officials said.

The allocation for miscellaneous expenditures and contingencies was reduced $750, from $13,250 in the 1980 budget to $12,500 in the tentative 1981 package. Categories of the general fund which are higher in the new budget than last year are: administration—up $73,146, from $131,854 to $205,000; the engineering department—up $35,827, from $14,173 to $50,000; and general maintenance—up $243,450, from $231,550 to $475,000.

A $204,942 reduction in all other funds is projected in the new budget. Other funds totaled $1,061,392 in 1980 while expenditures of $856,450 are budgeted for 1981.

Funds showing reductions are the bond and interest fund, down $103,192, from $479,642 to $376,450; the emergency services and disaster operations fund, which dropped $40,250, from $240,250 to $200,000; liability insurance, which declined $65,000, from $160,000 to $95,000 in the proposed budget, and the tort liability insurance fund, which declined $1,500, from $46,500 to $45,000.

The main reason for the reduction in the bond and interest fund is that the district has reduced its indebtedness from a high of $1.4 million in anticipation warrants to about $600,000, a spokesman said.

The appropriation for auditing remains at $25,000 in the new budget, the same as 1980.

The only increase, other than in the general fund, was the appropriation for municipal retirement, which was upped from $110,000 to $115,000 in the proposed budget.

The promotion of G. Basil Davies Jr. to the newly created position of manager-product sales, Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp., has been announced by William F. Ewart, corporate vice president-commercial.

Davies previously was marketing manager-galvanized at National's corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa. In his new position at Granite City Steel, he will report to H. C. Bott, general manager-product sales.

Granite City Press Record
1817 Delmar
Granite City, Illinois 62040

Letter to the Editor,

"1980 was a record year". This statement I am sure won't be repeated by many firms due to the economic conditions experienced the past 12 months. We are happy to announce that thanks to the Press Record and its circulation, our client applicant response was the highest of our existence and sales reached an all time record.

With economic conditions as they are in Granite City with the industry lay offs and plant closings, we were able to reach many citizens in need of employment, who previously were unaware we were here. All told, our sales were responsible for adding over $1,000,000 in additional income to local citizens.

During 1981 we plan to expand this marketing tool, and with the continued help of your sales staff, refine our advertising to increase even further our productivity.

Granite City is indeed fortunate to have a newspaper the quality of the Press Record.

Thank You,

James R. McKechnan

Predict 15.6 percent multiplier for GC

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

Granite City residents already concerned about increases in the assessments of the homes have one more surprise coming as a 15.61 percent multiplier is being projected for the township.

Chouteau Township residents also face a 22 percent multiplier, the Press-Record has learned. The proposed multiplier is 1.22.

On the other hand, Nameoki Township taxpayers may be pleasantly surprised to learn that a negative multiplier of nearly 15 percent is under consideration for their township, unless the Madison County Board of Review decreases too many assessments. A multiplier of .8529 is under consideration, study shows.

Venice Township also will have a negative multiplier, decreasing their assessments nearly two percent. A multiplier of .9814 is suggested there, sources confirm.

The effect of a multiplier on a home assessment may be determined by multiplying the assessment times the multiplier. In the case of a $30,000 home, assessed at $10,000 (one-third of market value), the multiplier of 1.561 in Granite City would raise the assessment from $10,000 to $15,610. This is the amount against which tax rates will be applied for collection next summer.

County Supervisor of Assessments James Barton told the Press-Record Friday that he feels "The Board of Review will find it necessary to raise the total assessment of Granite City by a multiplier of 1.561," which is nearly a 16 percent increase in the assessments, against which the rates for taxes to be collected next summer are applied.

The multiplier assessed against Granite City Township last year (collected last summer) was 1.581 percent or 1.581.

Granite City Township Tax Assessor Von Dee Cruse said he is aware that a 15.61 percent multiplier is under consideration by the Board of Review and threatened to "oppose it 100 percent."

Cruse called the proposed multiplier "a very, very unfair thing," and stated, "I don't know what my recourse could be, but if there is a legal recourse, I'm going to object."

"It will throw property up over what the real value will be. I never objected to multipliers before because I knew we were low, but this year, we have totally reassessed every home to the required one-third of its market value and a multiplier is totally unfair," Cruse contended.

Barton said he feels the multiplier is necessary to comply with state law. He said the overall assessment of Granite City Township raised only 2.9 percent in the re-evaluation and he believes the assessments now are only 28.83 percent on the average of the last three years, while state law calls for the assessments to be 33.33 percent, or one-third of the market value of each piece of property.

He said the multiplier is "already in the works," and will change only if the Board of Review changes too many assessments during the board's hearings on assessment protests.

The assessed valuation of Granite City Township was $151,697,090 in 1980, minus all the new improvements, which totaled $320,860. That leaves $150,876,230. In 1979, the assessment for the township was $146,504,750.

"That means this year's assessment is only a 2.98 percent increase. We needed considerably more than that, to bring values to 33.3 percent and the Granite City Township assessor did not," Barton contended.

He predicted, "The Board of Review will find it necessary to raise the total assessment of Granite City by a 1.561 multiplier. That will hold, unless there is a big increase or decrease by protests before the Board of Review."

"I believe that the 15.61 multiplier is fairly accurate. The law is very specific—assessment shall be one-third of fair market value. Information derived from recent sales of homes in the township show that the total market is 15.61 percent less than fair market value, on the three-year average," Barton explained.

Cruse blames "a seller's market" in housing for inflating home prices beyond a reasonable level. "If you have either a buyer's market or a seller's market, that is not good. Values should be determined on the true value of that property where here we have a three-year average when for the last three years, it has been entirely a seller's market."

He objected to the three-year averaging of assessments, required by state law, saying, "We have just reassessed. Every home is at one-third of the market value. Why should we then have to average the last three years and end up with a multiplier because homes were underassessed in the past? It's crazy."

Barton estimated the multiplier of Nameoki Township, which was just completely reassessed by the county deputy assessors, to be a negative multiplier of .85, or a 15 percent reduction of assessments.

Nameoki Tax Assessor Carl Macios said Friday that he is glad to hear there will be a negative multiplier, but does not 15 percent is enough to offset many of the increases in assessments arrived at by the county assessors.

"Even if you deduct 15 percent, a lot of people are going to protest anyway. This throws a little different twist in it, but some homes have been assessed at 50, 60 and 100 percent increases. Mine went up 60 percent."

"They are just way out of line. There are too many inequities in the assessments in Nameoki Township. Macios said it is encouraging all Nameoki Township property owners to protest their high assessments by filing protest forms with the Board of Review and appearing for hearings on their assessments.

His office has ordered 4,500 assessment complaint forms and precinct committeemen and township officials are in the process of attempting to distribute the forms to every home in the township.

"I want everyone to obtain forms and file them with the Board of Review. We will try to get all the forms out within 10 days, but for those who do not receive them, they will be available at the township office, 4250 Highway 162, or at my office, 78 Cambridge Drive, day or night."

"The new assessments are grossly unfair, so I want to be sure that everyone gets a protest form and has an opportunity to appear before the Board of Review."

Barton warned that if too many of the assessments are reduced by the Board of Review, the multipliers will have to increase. Alderman Paul Ray Bowler of the Seventh Ward in Granite City, who is organizing a ward protest to the new assessments, called that "a po-win situation." Bowler told the Press-Record, "If you do nothing, your assessments remain high and you are socked with a multiplier. If you protest and succeed in having your assessments lowered, the county or the state will come along and sock you with a higher multiplier. You can't win."

Bowler is inviting all residents of the Seventh Ward to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues, to discuss the new assessments.

Bowler said he will have figures available showing the assessment increase for each parcel of property in the ward and will have the parcel identification number for each parcel, which is necessary when filing a tax protest form.

The effect of the proposed 1.561 multiplier on assessments in Granite City Township also will be discussed, Bowler said.

Cruse said he is extending his office hours from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. this week so that anyone who wishes to discuss his new assessment may do so with a member of the assessor's staff. Corrections will be made on the spot, if homeowners can show that their homes have been assessed based upon faulty information, or if they can show the assessment is too high in relation to similar parcels of property in the neighborhood.

Cruse said there is nothing his office can do about the proposed multiplier, other than object to it, but he said the Illinois legislature should step in to prevent the state from imposing multipliers when state inspectors believe the assessment of any county is too low.

Either the state or the county, or both, may impose multipliers, if they feel assessments are too low. If the county does not impose multipliers on townships, the state will impose a multiplier on the entire county, he said.

"I have been at this 16 years and I still haven't found out how they determine these multipliers."

"It's just the state watching out for their contribution to the school aid formula. I can't see where the state should become involved," Cruse said. Informed that there is legislation under consideration in Springfield to remove the school tax from the property tax, Cruse commented, "This would be the biggest thing that could happen to local government." While some replacement tax would be necessary to support the schools, Cruse feels removing school aid from property tax may be one way to help keep people in their homes. Macios agreed, saying, "Some people just cannot afford to pay these taxes. I have had people come to me and tell me they are going to have to sell their homes because they cannot afford to pay the taxes, the house payments and the utilities. Yet, you can't hardly sell your house in today's market. Something has to be done."

If the school tax is not removed from the real estate tax, Cruse predicts the future for homeowners will be grim. He can see that in the future we are really going to be hit. All the tax rates are sharing at their maximum. If revenue sharing aid stops, and the taxpayers have to take over these programs and salaries, that would really hit us," he concluded.

Plan commission to host workshop on recreation

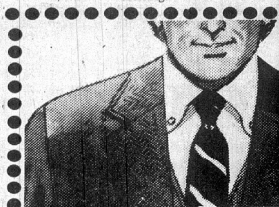

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC) will co-host two workshops with the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service (HCRS) and the Southern Illinois Parks and Recreation Association (SIPRA) on Friday, Jan. 9, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Community Room of the Collinsville Building and Loan Association, 701 Bell Line Road, Collinsville.

Feeding birds a winter pleasure

By BOB WILLIAMS
School of Education

Walking downtown these days one hears all kinds of comments and complaints about the weather. Burr, it's cold outside, the wind takes my breath away — each comment pointing out the discomfort our poor, frail human bodies are being forced to withstand.

Each of us then rushes to a heat vent, strips off seven layers of clothing, grabs a cup of something hot, and props our feet up to consider our pains. Poor mistreated babies.

Very few of us, through, have to face each day's weather as a threat to survival, and most of us never will. Luckily we don't live outside where we would be forced to find shelter in other ways. The sharp winds and bitter cold we so flippanantly step away from by going indoors are a constant menace to the birds and animal life that winters here in Illinois.

Last week, my attention was drawn to a flock of birds feeding on the dried and frozen crab apples that are so abundant around the office buildings of the campus. Some wise planner was able to foresee the time when these fruits might be one of the only available food sources for these birds. These cedar waxwings must have been stopping to feed on their way through because I never saw them again.

If any of you get a chance to watch the birds at the feeders, you should see some behaviors that will indicate winter survival techniques. Birds fluff their feathers, enlarging the dead airspace around the bodies. By doing this, they reduce heat radiation loss which is sort of like putting on a couple of pairs of thermal underwear. Many birds roost in compact circles so as to share their common heat. One reason we find so many birds around our buildings is that they use the building areas for sleeping roosts. All the crooks, corners, and crevices of our glassed-in buildings are used each night by our fine feathered friends.

All birds have very special feeding habits. Some are seed eaters and have heavy bills for breaking or crushing seeds. These are the birds that are usually most abundant during winter. Some of these birds feed on the ground, but many feed high in trees or on bushes.

The birds should have hanging feeders or elevated trays. Most of our so-called trash birds, such as the starling and English sparrows are ground feeders. These birds will drink away the most delicate and species by their aggressive behavior at the feeder.

To eliminate this, hang pieces of bread scraps or such in bags hanging from branches or ledges. Placing the feeder close to a window helps to eliminate some of these pest birds.

If you want to experiment with this, just watch when you throw out food scraps. You should attract starlings and sparrows, an occasional blue jay, but nothing else. Put out a feeder with bird seed and you should have native sparrows, cardinals, mockingbirds, juncos plus others.

Other birds need meat or insect substitutes eaten from something other than a flat surface. These birds will feed on suet or peanut butter which has been impregnated with seeds. These feeders should hang free or be nailed to a tree. Birds attracted to these feeders are woodpeckers, chickadees and nuthatches.

Other bird feeders that are easy to construct will help attract a variety of birds to your backyard. A orange or apple impaled on a stick will attract orioles or catbirds. Dried currants or raisins held together by suet, fat, or peanut butter will bring robins, thrushes or catbirds.

Coarsely ground raw peanuts will attract cardinals, nuthatches, titmice. Hang an ear of corn for cardinals.

Now that you have the idea, check the local libraries for additional information on feeding birds. Many feeders can be cheaply and easily constructed, and you will be surprised how much fun it is to help these creatures "make it through the night."

Once you start the feeding process, it should be kept up until normal feed appears. The birds you attract will become dependent on your providing them food. If you stop, you might be responsible for their starvation as you would if you hadn't started at all.

Recipe for chickadee pudding for your bird feeders. Note: squirrels like it, too.

375 ml melted suet, 30 ml peanut butter, 250 ml oatmeal, 125 ml cornmeal, 375 ml cereal crumbs, 125 ml flour, 65 ml sugar, 250 ml bird seed.

Mix completely, put into feeder. Set in a cool spot to harden. Hang outside.

Hearing on worker compensation self-insurance regulatory plans

New state legislation permits employers to form groups for the purpose of self-insuring their workers' compensation liabilities. The General Assembly action directed Philip R. O'Connor, director, Illinois Department of Insurance, to propose regulations to implement the legislation.

Rules describing requirements for employers who form a group to self-insure their liabilities under the Workers' Compensation Act have been promulgated and public hearings on these regulations have been scheduled. One will be in Chicago at 160 N. LaSalle St., Room 1800, on Jan. 30, 1981, and another will be in Springfield at 320 W. Washington St., Fourth Floor, on Feb. 5, 1981. Both hearings will begin at 9:30 a.m.

For the first time, we will see employers grouped in self-insured pools providing a competitive element that I hope will improve the health of the work comp marketplace," said O'Connor.

The insurance director warned that a lack of care in developing and managing the pools could destroy long-term opportunities by generating insolvencies or weak, unattractive pools. "In our effort to draft the self-insured rules," said O'Connor, "we have given careful attention to five important rules."

"1. Sufficient numbers of exposures so as to spread risk adequately.

"2. Adequate asset base to fund potential liabilities.

"3. Reasonable expectation of individual pool member solvency.

"4. Maintenance of pool attractiveness and avoidance of adverse selection.

"5. Necessity to avoid confusing self-insurance with no-insurance."

O'Connor said he hopes testimony at the hearings will provide "empirically based arguments, not wishful thinking by employers, insurers and their agents."

The proposed regulation requires that an application be made for a certificate of authority to be issued by the Department of Insurance. The application must report how costs are to be proportioned among members; what the aggregate loss history of members has been for each of the last three years; what the combined workers' compensation experience for the group has been for the last three years; and any other financial data requested by the director of insurance.

Other key elements of this legislation, said O'Connor, are those requirements aimed to insure the viability of self-insured groups.

A. The requirement that loss reserves be sufficient to cover unpaid claims.

B. Restricting the amount of risk exposure for each pool.

C. Creation of a minimum size for both pools and members.

D. Establishment of performance standards for the self-insured service to pool members.

E. Provision of a framework for analysis of viability prior to initial operation of a pool.

The minimum number of employees for a pool member is 20, and the annual payroll must be at least $250,000.

Members of a self-insured group must have combined annual payroll of at least $10 million.

Copies of the proposed rule may be obtained by writing or calling Jackie Gannammon at the Department of Insurance (217-785-1791).

Any person wishing to submit oral or written comment on this rule must contact Robert N. Enokew Jr., acting chief counsel, Department of Insurance, 320 W. Washington St., Springfield 62767, on or before Jan. 26.

The hearing officer is Thomas W. Jenkins, special counsel to the director of insurance.

Chouteau sets caucus date

The Chouteau Town Board Monday night agreed to set a date for the township's Republican and Democratic caucuses, in the event township voters wish to nominate their own parties for the April township election.

The caucus date was set for Tuesday, Jan. 13, 1981, at the township hall with the Republican caucus beginning at 7 p.m. and the Republican caucus starting at 8 p.m.

Any registered voter who has declared a party affiliation in a primary election may attend that party's caucus and vote on nominating a slate.

However, according to Chouteau Town Clerk Pat Polley, there have been no requests for caucuses by either party, and it is probable that no one will attend the caucuses.

The Jan. 13 date is set by the new Illinois consolidated elections law. Township caucuses formerly were held on Jan. 20.

Council to vote on sewer rates

The Madison County special sewer district in Narnooki, Chouteau and Venice townships is ready to begin accepting sewer tap-on permits, if the Granite City Council approves a tentative sewer treatment rate at tomorrow night's city council meeting.

The council two weeks ago deferred action on a proposed ordinance which would have set the sewage treatment rate at $13 per quarter (three months) and a $5 per quarter surcharge for bond retirement, a total of $18 per quarter. The county sewer district plans to add approximately $17 per quarter for sewer maintenance and operating sewer district, officials have announced.

Since the large primary and secondary sewage treatment plants on the Granite City Army Installation were built by Granite City, the county's "treatment" facility, but a lawsuit delayed the construction of the sewers in the townships several years. Granite City taxpayers have had to pay more for the larger plant than they would have if a smaller plant had been constructed to serve just the city's needs.

Therefore, the aldermen are demanding the bond retirement surcharge for as long as it takes for the county residents to pay their fair share of the overall cost of paying off the bonds and interest. Some aldermen favor a $10 per quarter surcharge, which other county residents currently using city sewers have been charged since 1978.

A study done by a consulting firm for the county's sewer district agreed that users of the new county sewers need to repay $339,670, or 12.89 percent of the total that city residents already have paid on the bonds.

The $10 surcharge the city proposed would have repaid that amount in about five years, after which it would be dropped, under the city plan.

The demand for a $10 surcharge despatched negotiations for about one year, until the Madison County Board voted Dec. 17 to file suit against the city to determine whether a 1972 agreement between the city and the county setting sewerage treatment rates was still valid. Assistant State's Attorney Marshall

"Zeke" Smith said he would make a last ditch effort to reach an agreement before filing the lawsuit a negotiating session was held in Mayor Paul Schuler's office Saturday, Dec. 20, during which the tentative $18 per quarter charge was agreed upon by those present, including all five members of the county's sewer committee.

However, the only city representatives at that meeting were Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and City Attorney John Papa. The tentative agreement was presented to the city's aldermen at their Dec. 23 regular meeting and the aldermen indicated they have several questions about the agreement, so they placed the ordinance setting the sewer rates on first reading and it was not brought up for final passage.

Likewise, during a special meeting Dec. 26, the council failed to discuss the sewer treatment rates, concentrating instead on a bond issue for Pre-Coat Metals.

By the council's rules, the sewer rate ordinance is to be brought up for final passage tomorrow night.

Red tape may hamper alternate bus service

When the county's new transit board holds its first meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the county courthouse at Edwardsville, one of the items on the agenda is likely to be the possible breaking away from local dependence on the Bi-State Transit Agency for bus service. The transit board may seek proposals from Vandalia Bus Lines and others on providing local bus service.

However, the transit board members may discover that it may be much easier to discuss than to see become a reality, according to Matt Melucci, executive director of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

A memo from Melucci to Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City details some of the steps necessary for Madison County to contract with another company for bus service in this area, not the least of which is getting the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) to recognize the replacement bus service as a "designated recipient" of federal subsidy funds.

Such recognition would require the concurrence of the approved regional transit authority, which is the Bi-State Development Agency, operator of the Bi-State Transit Agency, Illinois.

It also would have to have written approval from the governor's office and be approved formally by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

Proof would have to be shown that the new bus system has the capability of: 1) implementing programs; 2) submitting applications to UMTA; 4) exercising formal agreements with UMTA, and 5) fulfilling the requirements of a public hearing on the service.

In order to qualify to receive federal funds, the new bus service would have to agree to federal rules regarding personnel, including assuring all workers who may be affected by the change that their bargaining rights, wages and working conditions will be protected and that they will be given priority for employment or re-employment, according to Melucci's memo.

Also, labor agreements would have to be negotiated between the district manager and local union officials and certified by the secretary of labor, he says.

"This process is often long and involved and can delay receipt of funds," UMTA funds can be withheld if the local union opposes the new service due to proposed labor practices, such as the use of non-union or part-time employees, or if the agreement would result in large-scale layoffs of transit workers," the memo continues.

Also in order to qualify for local funding, the new bus service must provide a "designated recipient" for wheelchair users and information systems for the blind and deaf. "Compliance with this regulation can prove costly, especially to a small transit provider," Melucci says. "Although this requirement is being challenged in Congress, a recent opinion by the Department of Transportation counsel has not changed the department's interpretation of the regulation," he added.

The other major provision which must be met is compliance with the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, if the local buses are going to cross into Missouri and Illinois.

The memo also explains that a thorough study by its staff to attempt to find any situations nationally of an entity, such as a transit board, contracting with anyone other than the recognized transit authority for service, "we have been unable to find any situations which directly similar to what some opponents to Bi-State are proposing."

"In general, where private companies are currently operating transit services and receiving federal and local subsidy, one of two situations exists. Either that company is operating a specific service, such as a subscription commuter service which the transit authority does not offer, or the company had operated a transit service prior to the formation of a public authority and has continued operations, coordinated with services offered by the new public body.

"Although private transit companies can receive federal funding, such funds can only be assessed indirectly through a service contract with an eligible recipient. An eligible recipient could be a local governmental or a public not-for-profit corporation, such as a transit district or a transit operating authority."

"However," Melucci's memo continues, "federal funds may be used by a transit district, for instance, only when that body has been named a 'designated recipient' by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration."

He concludes, "It should be understood that the cost for a private carrier to provide services may be much more significant than expected when faced with the need to satisfy federal funding requirements."

In an interview with the Press-Record, Melucci said the memo was prepared, not to discourage the new transit board from investigating alternatives to Bi-State, but to acquaint the board of some of the problems it might encounter in trying to replace some Bi-State routes.

"East-West Gateway does not wish to take a side on this matter. If the Madison County transit board decides to further investigate providing alternative bus service, we will be at its service and will help the board in any way we can," he added.

Members of the new transit board, appointed last month by Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, are Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City, County Board Member William Haine of Alton and Collinsville Township Supervisor V. J. Tucker.

The board has the authority to levy up to a one-fourth cent sales tax to subsidize public transportation in the district. That tax may be imposed at Monday's meeting, since full state subsidization for Bi-State will end after today and Bi-State has threatened to greatly curtail bus service, unless the loss of state funds is made up by local transit districts immediately.

At Wood River ...

South wins consolation title

By TOM SCHOCKER of the Press Recorder

WOOD RIVER — It took them 11 games to prove it, but they finally did it.

Wednesday in the Wood River Holiday Classic, the Granite City South basketball Warriors were in a hole against Piasa Southwestern. But, for the first time all season, they responded to capture the Consolation Championship in a heart-stopping April, 34-32.

There were only three seconds showing on the clock when George Sykes stepped to the free throw line. He had a one and one shot with the game tied at 32. Sykes calmly made both ends.

Lake Sykes, South got the points when it needed it, but it wasn't that easy.

Fighting back from a six point deficit, 30-34, South caught the Piasa Birds late in the fourth stanza. A clutch basket from Joe Schmucke, his only points for the game, drew the Warriors to within two at 30-48.

With 1:32 remaining, Eric Wallenberger drove the lane and business strongly, tied the game at 30.

Wallenberger had been held quiet until the fourth quarter when he broke in seven of South's 19 points.

"This whole week I have been in a slump," said Wallenberger. "I have been hitting good from the free throw line, but not from the floor. I don't know what the problem is. You can see the trophy, we won in a tight spot and it seems that when you have to have the points, I feel I can score better when the pressure is on."

At the 1:01 mark, Southwestern dropped through two free throws, but the Warriors came down and got another clutch hoop. This one was fired from Ken McManus.

It was only his eighth point of the game. "Coach told me to shoot the ball with confidence, so I shot like I was going to hit it," said McManus.

Now the Warriors needed the ball back. No sooner said than done, McManus picked a Piasa player clean with 16 seconds left and South was in business for one final shot.

"We were just looking for the open man," said Sykes. The Warriors found Sykes in the lane who drew the foul.

"I didn't even get a chance to shoot," added Sykes who led South in scoring with 21 points. All year we were down and weren't able to catch up, but for the first time all season we came back and won. I think it's great."

Sykes completed the tournament with 49 points, a 16 point average and a spot on the All-Tournament Second Team.

"If there is one one player I would single out, it would have to be Sykes," said Warrior head coach Don Deterding. "His offense carried us throughout the tournament and especially this game. It was a fitting opportunity for him to win the game for us. He really hit the shots when we needed them. But, you would have to go right down the line and look at the all other clutch baskets."

Southwestern took full advantage of South's accomplishment. It overshadowed the possible ill-winded bad luck they had been accustomed to. As most of South's contests have gone this season, the one item that has produced many of the nine losses, began to surface once more. The offense just plain tumbled out.

It took the Warriors two and a half quarters to sub-stain a defensive clamp that proved to last three times down the court. The Piasa Birds had shown they could put points on the board when they racked up 30 against Clinton, Tennessee in their consolation semi-final win.

South looked like it grabbed the upper hand as it moved out to a six point lead, 35-29. But, the ugly hand of fate slapped the Warriors.

For the last 3:15 in the third quarter and the first 40 seconds of the fourth frame, South couldn't buy a basket. "During that stretch, I thought, oh no, it's going to be one of those games," said McManus.

Southwestern took full advantage of South's misfortunes and reeled off 10 straight points. The first 36 tallies came from the free throw line as the officials turned whistle happy on the Warriors. South was called for 19 violations compared to 11 for the Piasa Birds who won 17 times the free throw in the second half. Attempting 25 overall, Southwestern connected on 18.

"I hate to say anything about the officials," said Deterding. "They just call them as they see them, but I did think the last foul on Sykes was a good call."

It took a time-out to wake the Warriors up to the fact, they still had a chance to win the game. "I challenged their character," said South head coach Don Deterding. "I enjoy coaching kids that respond. It shows a lot of pride. So, I'm not going to take credit for this one, because they deserve all the credit. Maybe now they are convinced we can beat any team."

Knights out-muscled North 30-14, as Dan Beckemeyer pulled down 12 caroms.

"Beckemeyer did a good job rebounding, especially on the offensive end," said Cavalieri. Beckemeyer grabbed eight rebounds that contributed to his game high 22 points. Tom Robben followed in double figures

Ohlendorf. "You have to be able to do this, to be a winner."

Although the Steelers hit very well from the floor, it was a one chance opportunity. If they missed the shot, they likely to get rebound. On the other hand, Mater Dei had little trouble getting two of three shots at the offensive basket. The Steelers improve, but results the same

By TOM SCHOCKER of the Press Recorder

BRESEE — When a team is winless, even the best performances may go unnoticed. The Granite City North Steeler basketball team came up with probably their best shooting effort of the year here Saturday.

Sure, they're getting better, but they're still not winning. The latest casualty, make that number nine, came from the Mater Dei Knights.

Coming off a good second place showing in their own holiday tourney, the Knights humbled North, 61-49, despite a slow start.

Playing well against some tough competition during the tournament, Mater Dei could have taken North a little too lightly. What can you expect from an 0-4 team? But the Steelers have been trying to shed the "push-over" image and for the first eight minutes it was working.

North looked like a recreated ball club. In fact, you could even have called them deadly. The Steelers dropped in 24 shots in 43 attempts for a remarkable 56 percent.

"We're hitting our shots," said Steeler head coach Bill Ohlendorf. "It showed some in the tournament. It's been a big difference in our last couple of games."

It made all the world of difference in the opening frame. North was perfect with its first six shots which help build an eight point lead, 12-4. "I think Mater Dei was a little flat," said Ohlendorf. "We just took advantage of it."

The Steelers missed just two shots in the game and kept the lead. But, it didn't take long for the Knights to rectify the problem. "They (Mater Dei) adjusted to our defense and that's all it took," said Ohlendorf. The Knights chalked up the last six tallies of the second quarter and North hit only three of 11 shots and would not see the lead again.

"We didn't do an impressive," said Mater Dei head coach John Cavalieri. "We did what we wanted to do. But, I can't make them hustle and that's what we had a lack of in the first quarter."

Mater Dei took over the reigns of the hot shooters and connected on 11 of 15 to open the second half. With a Mater Dei adjusted to our defense and that's all it took," said Ohlendorf. The Knights chalked up the last six tallies of the second quarter and North hit only three of 11 shots and would not see the lead again.

Unlabeled, the Knights had gone to the free throw line five times. In just the fourth quarter alone, Mater Dei attempted to free throws and came away with eight points. It only had to shoot the ball three times in the last eight minutes of the game.

"When you have to go after the basketball, you tend to foul people a little more," said Ohlendorf. The Steelers were whistled for 13 fouls compared to 6 for Mater Dei. "We didn't execute," added

Energy program to be at South

"Energy Today and Tomorrow" will be presented at Granite City High School, South, on Monday, Jan. 26, it was announced today by R. William Roster Jr., science department head.

Karin Hokkanen, teacher-demonstrator will present the program. In addition to holding a bachelor's degree she has completed training in energy education at Oak Ridge, Tenn., the world famous energy research center.

Energy doesn't just pop out of the walls. But where does it come from? How do we use it? Why is it getting expensive? This is the subject of the special traveling program for high schools and civic clubs called "Energy Today and Tomorrow." The program, developed and operated by the Oak Ridge Associated Universities (ORAU), is sponsored by Illinois Power Company.

It features an array of unusual electronic teaching devices such as an animated garbage can that demonstrates the value of recycling, a bicycle that generates electricity, an electrostatic precipitator to control pollution, and an electric motorcycle.

The teacher-demonstrator, Karin Hokkanen, uses this equipment and other devices to describe the sources of our energy today, methods we use for power generation, possible future sources of energy and the social, economic and environmental choices we face when we use energy. One of the choices she discusses is conservation.

KARIN HOKKANEN

"Energy Today and Tomorrow" visits a different high school in Illinois each school day. The demonstration is presented in an assembly and is then followed by special classroom sessions adapted to the site, interests and grade level of the students. These sessions are designed to stimulate both science and non-science students into thinking about energy and the impact of science and technology on modern life. A similar demonstration discussion program is available for civic groups on request.

The "Energy Today and Tomorrow" program scheduled here is one of 21 similar units appearing daily at high schools in different parts of the country. They are part of an extensive traveling exhibits program designed to bring the public a greater understanding of energy and its uses.

ORAU is a nonprofit education and research consortium of 50 Southern colleges and universities.

Dividends to Illinois veterans

Veterans of Illinois will receive $31,147,000 in dividends during the year 1981 on insurance they have kept in force since their active duty days.

Donald R. Ramsey, director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Chicago, said the dividends will be paid on the anniversary of the policy. No application is needed, as they are paid automatically.

Sharing in the dividends in Illinois will be 206,199 veterans who served in World War I, World War II and Korea. There is no government insurance for the Vietnam era veterans, Ramsey said the dividends will be larger than 1980, since the funds earned higher interest rates during the past year. Nationally, the dividends will amount to $619 million, or $533 million higher.

Policyholders will receive varying amounts depending on the type of policy, the amount of insurance in force, the insured's age at issue or renewal, and the time the policy has been in force.

The average amount to be paid to the 3,373 World War I veterans with current policies is $296. The dividends will total $1,027,000.

World War II veterans who have kept their insurance policies in force in the state number 163,438. Total dividends will be $27,900,000, with an average of $168 each.

Korean war policyholders, who number 10,182, will receive an average payment of $67. Total dividends will be $641,000.

Disabled veterans who have a special type of GI insurance will also receive increased dividends, according to Ramsey. These policies earned dividends for the first time in 1980. This year's average dividend will be $96.

In Illinois, there are 3,566 veterans in this category and they will receive $184,000 during the year. A rumor persists over the years that World War II veterans can receive a dividend from policies lapsed years ago. This is not true, Ramsey concluded.

Bus trip from Arch for Jan. 22 march

Buses from Illinois and Missouri filled with pro-life supporters seeking a human life amendment will be leaving this area for Washington, D.C. at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 21.

The group will be taking part in the eighth "march of life" and lobbying activities to mark the date of the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision. The ruling legalized abortions for the entire nine months of pregnancy, the group contends.

It will be the sixth march in Washington for many Illinoisans. Those who have made the pilgrimage before have found it to be "an inspiration, giving them encouragement to continue the struggle for the rights of unborn children," a spokesman said.

"It is hoped that the total turnout will equal or exceed last year's gigantic march, during which 100,000 marchers participated."

An estimated 400 to 600 people from about 30 pro-life organizations in Illinois and Missouri plan to leave from the Gateway Arch.

"We think pro-lifers will flock to Washington in great numbers again. The American people, as indicated by the 1980 election, will no longer tolerate the status quo which has resulted in the deaths of millions of innocent, unborn children," according to Felicia Goeken, president of Illinois Federation for Life, the Illinois sponsor for the Washington march.

The bi-state group will arrive in Washington early the next morning for breakfast, and then start with appointments with congressmen.

At noon Jan. 22, all will assemble in the Ellipse adjoining the White House and begin a march up 17th Street, past the White House and Treasury building, and up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

The bus caravan will leave Washington that evening and arrive back in St. Louis at 3 p.m. Friday, Jan. 23.

Reservations are still available. Round-trip fare is $82 with meals the only additional expense.

For reservations and information, Quad-Cityans may call any of the following:

John Henry, 274-1905, extension 280 - St. Mary's Hospital, 1925 8th St., East St. Louis 62201.

Eleanor Kloepper, 282-2291 - Rural Route 2, Red Bud 62278.

JoAnne Schefers, 994-4249 - 751 Livingston, Carlyle 62231.

Nursing home Medicaid hike

Illinois Public Aid Director Jeffrey C. Miller announced today that nursing homes accepting Medicaid patients received a 5.7 percent payment increase, effective Jan. 1.

The increase represents an average of capital, nursing and support costs for the 749 skilled and intermediate care Medicaid nursing homes in Illinois. About 50,000 Medicaid patients currently reside in the nursing facilities.

Payment increase will cost the state approximately $26 million. However, half the cost will be reimbursed by the federal government.

Nursing home payment rates are reviewed each year by the governor's Purchase Care Rate Review Board.

CANCEL MEETINGS

Since there were no items on the agenda for either the Granite City Plan Commission or the city's Zoning Board of Appeals for January, both meetings have been cancelled. The Board of Appeals was to have met Wednesday, Jan. 14, and the Plan Commission the following day, Jan. 15.

SIUE dedication

A special breakfast, luncheon and dedication ceremonies on Jan. 14 are just a few of the activities planned to celebrate the opening of the new conference facilities in the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Approximately 100 representatives from area organizations and businesses have been invited to attend the breakfast.

The public is invited to attend ribbon-cutting ceremonies to open the recently renovated building at 11:30 a.m. in the Goshen Lounge. A reception will follow.

The University Jazz Band will appear in concert in the nightclub setting of the Redbud Oak Room of the Center at 11:45 a.m. Tours will be conducted through the new conference facilities and renovated offices of the building.

A dedication lunch will be held in the Mississippi Illinois Room at noon. Attendance will be by invitation only.

A workshop for representatives of area campus organizations who are responsible for coordinating conferences, meetings, or catered events will be held at 2 p.m.

Meet here on quality of air

New air quality rules for part of this region will be discussed at a meeting in Granite City on Wednesday. The meeting is to be at Charlie's Restaurant, beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Progress toward such rule changes is being credited to the efforts of IMAGE (Involvement and Management Advance Growth and Employment).

A study of air quality standards in the Illinois counties of Monroe, St. Clair and Madison was completed this winter and indicates positive results, an IMAGE spokesman said.

New levels proposed from the study, if allowed by elected officials and the governor and approved by the federal Environmental Protection Agency, would be the highest levels allowed in the nation.

Governor James R. Thompson ordered the study in 1979 after IMAGE representatives met with him and said that restrictive air quality controls were hindering increased industrial development and employment in the area.

IMAGE contends that the current standards limit development in the entire area while the main area of pollution may be covered from "a small strip of industrial firms between East St. Louis and Alton." Auto exhaust also is blamed for air pollution.

"The first thing we want to emphasize," says IMAGE Co-Chairman Robert Weiss, business manager of Brkleyville Local 65, Edwardsville, "is that we're 100 percent for clean air. But we also have concerns for the future growth of this area and the employment of our people."

"Reclassifying the area from Class II to Class III, as IMAGE is striving for, would come close to doubling the current allowable output of sulfur dioxide levels. This does not call for the issuance of any more particulate pollution in the area, however," Weiss said.

"Sulfur dioxide is an air contaminant that is released when fossil fuels like coal and oil are burned or processed. Particulate pollution is airborne dust or substances, such as flyash, given off from the burning coal."

Relaxed air standards would help our coal industry as well," contends Weiss. "Why should we pay a premium price for coal from other parts of the country when the richest deposits are right here in Illinois? But because of the strict standards, we can't burn our coal even if it is scrubbed."

The relaxed air rules would not apply to the Quad-City area.

After his meetings with IMAGE, Gov. Thompson approved $156,000 for the study.

IMAGE also credits the efforts of State Senator Sam Radabaugh, who encouraged the study.

The study is said to support what IMAGE had contended: the most densely populated areas of the three counties in question have been suffering because of the "blanket" restrictions due to the concentrated area of people, cars and plants.

"These restrictions have kept firms from expanding," Weiss continues, "and also have kept new industry from coming in."

"Not only will the reclassification help the economy of the area, but it will lead to new and modern equipment being installed which will continue to help clean up the air."

IMAGE is a joint labor-management group promoting on-time, cost-efficient completion of construction projects in Southern Illinois.

PAULA SUE STAVELLY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill C. Stavelly of Granite City. A freshman student at St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, she will receive her school cap in candlelight ceremonies Jan. 9 at the school. She is a member of the class which will complete the program in June 1983. St. Luke's, a fully accredited diploma program in professional nursing, was established in 1889 and is one of the oldest hospital schools of nursing in the nation.

Gerontology program to hold seminar

The Gerontology Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will sponsor a seminar entitled, "Voices of Experience," on Jan. 14.

Kevin McCleary, assistant professor of speech communication at SIUE, will lead the session. He will discuss poetry written by older adults and explain different strategies for beginning poetry writers.

The program is the second of a seminar series offered this winter free of charge for senior citizens in the Metro-East region.

The session will meet from 1:30 to 4 p.m. in the Mississippi Room in the University Center.

For additional information, interested persons may contact Lisa Pettit at (618) 692-3454 or 692-2202.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones of Granite City.

Lieut. Lucas copter pilot

Second Lieutenant Keith Lucas, son of Stanley Lucas Jr., of 161 Arlington Drive, Granite City, has completed an officer rotary wing aviator course and received the silver wings of an Army aviator at the U.S. Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala.

Students received instruction in helicopter flying techniques, including tactical instrument flying maintenance, navigation and radio procedures.

ZARUBA RETIRES AT TROOP COMMAND

Frank E. Zaruba, a supervisor computer specialist, has retired after 34 years of civil service. The Granite City resident was assigned to the Directorate for Management Information Systems at the Army Troop Support and Aviation Material Readiness Command (TSARCOM), Goodfellow Boulevard, St. Louis.

Officiating at the retirement ceremony was Colonel James M. Hesson, TSARCOM deputy commander. Also participating in the ceremony was Zaruba's wife, Betty.

Debtor exemption revision proposed

State Representative Alan J. Greiman (D-Skokie) and John Dunn (D-Decatur) have prefiled a comprehensive reform of the debtor exemption laws of Illinois on the same day that a 1980 law became effective.

The new law denies people in debt the right to retain some of their property. The Greiman-Dunn bill seeks to amend the new Illinois law, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1981; they want to continue the rights of Illinois citizens under the Federal Bankruptcy Act of 1978.

Rep. Greiman commented, "At a time when most legislative bodies and public officials are trying to ease the burden of working people caught between the rock of rising inflation and the hardplace of rising unemployment, the Illinois General Assembly and the governor have bowed to finance companies and small loan people."

"In 1979, Congress amended the Bankruptcy Act by providing that certain property be exempt from the reach of creditors so that people might be better able to have a 'second chance'."

Rep. Dunn emphasized, "What formerly was usury is now the going interest rate. It is unfortunate in these times to see legislation which will effectively deprive not only dead-beats but worthy individuals and businesses—caught in our debt trap—of any hope for a new start."

The new federal act allowed a bankrupt to claim exempt from creditors items of personal property of less than $200; $1,200 in equity in a car; health aides; tools of a trade up to $700 in value; child support; Social Security; pension rights; and homestead rights up to $7,500 in a home, as well as limited rights to the proceeds of personal injury.

The act also permitted states to substitute their own local state exemptions for the new federal exemptions. The Illinois General Assembly in 1980 passed SB 1728, which retained Illinois law exempting only $300 in personal property, a $10,000 homestead exemption for the head of a household, workmen's compensation awards, and cash surrender value of insurance policies.

Concovich is commended for flag contest

Gov. James Thompson has commended Steve Concovich of Granite City for his idea of a flag-waving contest last Veterans Day, and expressed his regrets that more people did not participate.

In a letter to Concovich, the governor said, "It is unfortunate that we must resort to a contest to get our citizens to display the American flag."

Gov. Thompson expressed his hopes that more people will take part in November this year, and said he was grateful to Concovich for calling the contest to his attention.

Illinois Bell to sell its phones

Illinois Bell announced the outright sale, rather than leasing, of all design line telephones. Also, the company said its PhoneCenter Stores are now accepting Visa and MasterCard as payment options.

In the past, residential customers who purchased design line phones owned only the shell; the phone company retained ownership and maintenance responsibility for the working parts. Phone prices under the new sales policy range from $89 for a rotary-dial

Exeter model phone to $429 for the limited-edition Americana. The Illinois Commerce Commission has approved the new sales policy.

Visa and MasterCard can be used as payment for 19 design line models, maintenance contracts and phone-check gift certificates. Illinois Bell is the fifth Bell System company to accept the cards; the others being Northwestern Bell, New York Bell, Ohio Bell and Bell of Pennsylvania.

Glen Carbon files suit on new census figures

Glen Carbon suit in Madison County Circuit Court last week to make certain the official 1980 census figures include 2,231 persons within the village boundaries but credited to Edwardsville township in two preliminary reports.

Village Clerk Glenda Kovarik said "After the first preliminary report came in showing our population 2,930, we took all our annexation ordinances since 1970 down to Belleville. We showed them what they hadn't credited to Glen Carbon. They assured us it would be corrected."

"When the final preliminary figure came out it was the same, 2,930," Glenda Kovarik said the last big Cottonwood annexation took place a couple of years before that.

Despite Department of Commerce assurances that the incorrect crediting will be changed, "we can't be positive," Kovarik said. Accordingly, village attorney Joe Kelleher was instructed to file the suit before Jan. 1 to preserve the village's position.

Glen Carbon isn't questioning the body count, just which jurisdiction the people were credited to. On that basis, it is believed there is a good chance of success in getting the correction made.

Large areas within Glen Carbon village limits have street and number addresses on the Edwardsville post office delivery system. When their mailed forms went to the census bureau, the Edwardsville address was misinterpreted to rule out the Glen Carbon connection. The village paid more than $5,000 in 1975 for a special census which found 3,062 people.

The 1970 census gave Glen Carbon 1,212. The preliminary figure which Glen Carbon disputes was 2,930, an increase of 59.2 percent.

Adding the disputed number to the 2,930 would give Glen Carbon 5,161. That would make its increase 225 percent.

The Alton-Wood River area, like the Quad-Cities, lost population from 1970 to 1980.

Alton dropped from 39,700 in 1970 to 33,963 (down 14.45 percent).

Meeting Wednesday on new assessments

Granite City residents who object to the new assessments of their homes, Fifth Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey, will include a brief talk, a question and answer period and then Mrs. Voegel will provide objection forms for those wishing to filing with the Madison County Board of Review for a hearing on their new assessments.

Hearing Jan. 20 on pretreatment program

A public hearing on a proposed sewage pretreatment program for Granite City is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 20, in the city council chambers of the Granite City Hall.

The required hearing is to explain the program, to offer information, federal and state regulations and to discuss the proposed city program and user charge system, according to a city spokesman.

2 obtain petitions

Two more potential Granite City aldermanic candidates have obtained petitions of candidacy from City Clerk Robert W. Stevens.

Casmer Skubish will run in a five-way race in Ward One against incumbent Charles Douglas and Leroy Jangiaracino. William Dallas Sr. and David L. Greathouse, if all file the petitions they have picked up.

In the Sixth Ward, Bill Smithson has picked up a petition. Others with petitions in that ward are Woodrow Moad, Walter Milton and Steve Saltich.

Filing begins Jan. 19 and continues through 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 26.
